MOLE TRAINS ON ELEVATED TRACK CRASH

Loop Electric Northbound Hits Shattuck Ave. Train, Seriously Injuring Motorman and Jarring Passengers

Motorman Hurled Under the Forward Truck by Train, Pinned Until the Wrecker Runs Up and Lifts Off Car

At least eight persons were hurt, one seriously, and scores were thrown about, bruised and frightened at noon when a California loop train, northbound from the Oakland Mole on the Southern Pacific electric lines, drove into the rear of a Shattuck train on the elevated structure at Sixteenth street.

The more seriously hurt were:

JAMES COONEY, loop train motorman, 1505 McGee avenue, Berkeley, cuts on head and brain concussion.

CHRIS PALLISER, conductor Shattuck train, 2016 Rose street, Berkeley, head and legs cut, may be internally hurt. Has brain concussion.

R. A. STAGG, conductor loop train, injured knee, taken to emergency hospital.

The following were taken to the emergency hospital of the Southern Pacific in the West Oakland yards and from there home:

MRS. RUTH SCHUESSLER, 916 Mona street, Berkeley, back wrenched and head bruised.

MR. and MRS. C. A. BRANDELIN and 6-year-old son, tourists from East on way to visit at 2314 Hillgard street, Berkeley, bruised and cut

MISS RUTH SILVER, 1235 Pearl street, Alameda, bruised head and chest

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL UNABLE TO EXPLAIN CRASH

Both Cooney and Palliser were taken to the Emergency hospital. They were not in a condition to explain the accident. Other persons, less injured, were taken to their homes.

In the crash Cooney was thrown under his train and it was necessary to jack up a car to release him.

Early reports were that Cooney lost control of his train as it swept up onto the elevated incline just behind the Shattuck train, which was slowing for the interlocking interlocking at the station. The loop train was still running rapidly when it struck. Steel cars prevented telescoping, the vestibules alone buckling under the impact.

PASSENGERS HURLED ABOUT IN CARS

Passengers from San Francisco were thrown about in the cars, which clung to the tracks.

After the crash the crowd from the trains was compelled to climb out on the elevated structure and make its way to the station platform.

Wreckers were on the scene in a few minutes and the police ambulances was called to take the injured men to the hospital.

Auto Trailer Hits, Kills S. F. Laborer

SAN MATEO, Oct. 4. — Julius Weng, a laborer, residing at 544 Valencia street, San Francisco, was killed on the highway near here today when struck by the trailer of a passing motor truck.

Weng was driving toward San Francisco with Gus Undaren and Elbert Eckdoll, the latter aged 16. The car developed engine trouble and Wengo got out and was lying on the running-board working with the engine when the trailer struck him.

The driver of the truck evidently did not know what had happened and continued on his way.

Young Eckdoll took the dead body of Weng into the auto beside him and drove back to San Mateo, while Undaren started afoot in pursuit of the truck.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Inquiry into the source of the recent shipment of Russian gold to the United States has been ordered by the State Department. Belief exists at the department that the gold may be a part of the Russian Bolshevik propaganda fund.

This was the first shipment of gold from Russia to the United States since late in 1916. Officials of the board said today they had not yet identified the shipment or its consignee.

Aliens Working On County Jobs Heyer Charges

Supervisor Asserts Men Not Citizens Are Employed Contrary to Law.

Charges by Supervisor Charles W. Heyer that the law prohibiting the employment by the county of persons who are not citizens of the United States is being violated, caused a distinct flurry in the meeting of the Board of Supervisors today.

Heyer said he knew there were such persons at the county hospital and he had heard there were some at the Arroyo sanitarium, the county's tubercular institution at Livermore, but he was not certain. He wanted the auditor instructed to dishonor the warrants of such persons as being illegally drawn.

HEYER SAYS HE DOES NOT KNOW NAMES.

Supervisors R. C Staats, who was occupying the chair during the absence from the room of Chairman John F. Mullins, said the motion was out of order, as the auditor already knew such was the law. He said Heyer should present the names, but that there was no necessity of bringing it before the board, anyway, as the institutions' commission or Heyer himself could settle the matter by giving the facts to the auditor.

Heyer said he did not know the names, but appealed to Superintendent A. C Jensen of the county hospital, and who was present, to verify his assertion. Jensen said there were two Swiss there, employed as milkers, who have taken out their first papers, but are not yet citizens. He said their work is perfectly satisfactory and added that it has been the policy of the hospital officials to give the preference to citizens, but that it is not always possible to secure them, especially for that class of work.

WITTSCHEN RULES ALIENS ARE BARRED.

Deputy District Attorney Theodore Wittschen was appealed to as to the law and said there is no question but that employment of non-citizens is prohibited. He said they may be under age, but that in case of public officials they must be over 21 and citizens as well.

This point was brought before the public recently when County Auditor E. F. Garrison held up the salary warrant of a daughter of County Treasurer F. W. Foss on the ground that she was under age. She has since resigned her position

SEPARATE BALLOT ON AMENDMENTS.

Garrison said today that he did not propose to be made the "goat" in these matters. He said it was not his duty to investigate the qualifications of every one on the county payroll, but the duty of those making the appointment. If the information is brought to him, he said, he will take proper action

Chairman John F. Mullins announced it had been decided by the Oakland city council to have a separate ballot for the amendments to the city charter instead of including them in the county's ballot. Mullins said he strongly favored a combined ballot in order to save the taxpayer expense and to save confusion and extra work for the election officers.

A communication was received from the railroad commission that the order prohibiting sign and display lighting during the power shortage had been extended to November 1, or pending rainfall

A resolution adopted by the city planning commission of Alameda favoring a tube under the estuary rather than a bascule bridge was referred to the committee of the whole.

PARK BOND ISSUE VOTE UP TO DAVIE

Resolution Urges Council Act on Proposals That Would Cost City Two Millions Referred to Mayor by Body

Public Park Lands, Museum and Reclaiming of Tract Near Auditorium Sought in Measure Clubs Present

In the presence of a large concourse of business men and club members requesting that the proposed bond issued for park purchases, museum and sanitation of Lake Merritt be placed on the ballot at the coming election, Nov 2, the City Council this morning referred the matter to Mayor Davie, who will confer with experts and return a report as soon as possible, probably tomorrow.

The three projects total about $2,000,000. Commissioner Edwards, at the end of the hearing of citizens, suggested that another project be added for $750,000 for new sewers. The citizens said they were willing to consider it, and this matter will also be added to Mayor Davie's report.

WAR VETERAN URGES MEMORIAL BUILDING

William Thompson, war veteran, said the veterans were being forgotten. "They are forgetting every promise that was made our soldiers," he charged. "We were to have a memorial building, if you will remember, and nothing more has been heard from it."

The matter of the memorial building bond issue was also referred to the mayor for a report

At the end of the session, City Clerk Cummings announced that the district attorney had telephoned that these projects cannot go on the ballot unless they go today.

City Attorney Hagan explained that this meant the county ballot, and that the city projects can go on a separate city ballot if they have to, though a joint ballot will be preferable.

RESOLUTION ASKS VOTE ON PROJECTS

A resolution requesting the Supervisors to place the charter amendments on their ballot was drawn up, thus authorizing the consolidation of ballots, for the issues already up. The newer issues will come up for further decision tomorrow

Speaking for the Lake Merritt sanitation project, which includes a water-pumping system from the western waterfront into Lake Merritt, Marston Campbell announced that the pipe line could be made with a 200-pound pressure, giving the city a fire protection second to no city in the country

The citizens were led by Max Horwinski and Le Roy Goodrich, the latter asserting that the plan was under contemplation six weeks and everything was being done to arouse public interest and cut to essentials.

"All we ask is that you give us the privilege of laying the matter before the people," said Abe P. Leach of the Kiwanis club

The speakers also included Jesse J. Dunn, Mrs Herbert Law, Jesse Robinson, Assemblyman Edgar Hurley and Campbell.

Goodrich said that the chain of park lands from Trestle Glen to Redwood Peak can now be bought for a less price than ever in the future, as the entire price has been hammered down to $982,000, a lower price than could be gained in the last five years.

TOTAL BOND ISSUE WOULD BE $2,103,000

The program, as outlined calls for three separate issues, the total bonds asking being $2,103,000.

The purchase of Trestle Glen, gateway to the chain of parks would require an issue of $832,000

For the museum plan is asked $500,000, to include site and house for exhibits.

The Lake Merritt project is urged as the means to remove a possible future menace to health caused by the filling of the lake with sewage, which may back from the bay, for its possibilities to acquire for the city land to be reclaimed, and for the opportunity afforded to install a double system of high pressure pumps to be used in insuring a constant level for the lake, a clean supply of water, and to provide in the heart of the city a water pressure that will lower insurance rates.

SMALL PARKS PURCHASE ALSO IS PROPOSED

Coupled with the park proposal is one that would call for the expenditure of $150,000 for the purchase of three or four small parks, one in East Oakland, one in West Oakland and one in Rock Ridge.

The resolution asking action, and prepared after a meeting of various civic organizations on Saturday, follows:

"Whereas there is in Oakland at the present time a widespread demand for the establishment of a system of public park lands, including a central chain of parks beginning with Trestle Glen and ending at Redwood Park, and

"Whereas unless opportunity is afforded the people of Oakland at once by the city council to express their will with reference to the acquisition of such lands, the owners will have subdivided and sold these lands, with the result that they will be forever lost to the city, and

GREAT NEED FOR NEW PARKS CITED

"Whereas there is and has been a great need in the outlying districts of West Oakland, Rock Ridge and East Oakland for smaller neighborhood parks, which have from time to time been promised

STATE LABOR CONVENTION ON IN FRESNO

Japanese Question Taken Up As Federation Announces Support of Exclusion Plan; Tokyo Delegates Present

"Better America" Body Is Hit by President Murphy in His Annual Report; Growth of Union Organization Is Told

FRESNO, Oct. 4.—California labor opened the biggest convention in its history today when more than 400 State Federation of Labor delegates met in Workmen's hall.

The Japanese question was made a paramount consideration in the meeting when President Murphy in his report told of the active part taken by the federation's executive council in support of the proposition to stop leasing of land by Orientals.

The morning session of today was given over to welcoming speeches by Fresno officials, after which reports of the last year's activities of the federation were read by President Daniel Murphy and Secretary Paul Scharrenburg, both of San Francisco.

The convention adjourned shortly after noon without settling the contest as to delegates representing factions of oil workers The dispute was made a special order of business for tomorrow's session opening at 10 o'clock. Each faction will be given 30 minutes to present its case The credentials committee today reported as favoring seating the Stickles delegates.

JAPANESE QUESTION BEFORE CONVENTION

The Japanese question was laid before the convention by Daniel Murphy of San Francisco, president of the organization.

Murphy, in his report distributed to the delegates, outlined the anti-Japanese program which will be on the November ballot, and then said:

"Once or twice it has been intimated that the above mentioned changes in the land law do not concern the workers in the cities It should be borne in mind, however, that agriculture is the basic industry of all industries and in California it is pre-eminently so, leading all others in value of production by $500,000,000 annually.

"So the question is, Shall the Japanese control this output and reap the profits, or the white people? Shall the Japanese dominate or the white people?"

JAPANESE LABOR MEN ATTENDING MEETING.

Murphy's statement will form the basis for the anti-Japanese action which the convention will be asked to take.

The situation will be the more interesting in that representatives from Tokyo of Japanese labor are attending the convention. Tokyo dispatches say that it is among the working classes that the feeling over the California legislative program is the most intense.

Belief that Japanese do not encroach upon workers was expressed by William J. McQuillan, Sacramento district vice president of the federation, in a report he submitted.

Paul Scharrenberg, secretary of the federation, presented the recommendations of the organization's executive council for and against measures on the November ballot.

The recommendations urge support of the following:

Alien land law; absentee voting, exemption of orphanages from taxation; measure pledging state financial support for additional state hospitals

DEFEAT OF ALLEN POLL TAX SOUGHT.

Defeat of the following is urged

Measure increasing the percentage of signatures required for certain initiative petitions, providing for a constitutional convention; alien poll tax

On the remainder of the twenty measures on the November ballot no recommendations was made

The report showed the federation is composed of 395 affiliated unions with a total membership October 1, 1920, of 164,200.

The "American plan" of industrial relations and the "Better American Federation," came in for criticism in the annual report of Murphy

"In many cases employers have attempted to conceal their efforts to keep wages at a low standard by announcing that they intended to establish the so-called American plan in industry," Murphy said

Later in his report Murphy took up the subject of the "Better American Federation"

"The name in itself will cause trade unionists to look for the 'patriateer,'" he said.

Records of candidates seeking reelection have been supplied to labor organizations by the federation Murphy declared in his annual report.

Labor's slogan, "Demand our friends and defeat your enemies whenever and wherever possible" was kept in mind, Murphy said when the records were compiled

DISCLOSURES FOLLOWING CAPTURE OF DYNAMITE CARRIER FURNISH CLEWS

Information Obtained from Russian Taken at Pittsburgh May Lead To Solution of N. Y. Explosion

THREATENS TO DO 'BIGGER JOB'

(By United Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—A number of arrests were made today in Brooklyn in connection with the Wall street plot as a result of disclosures made after the seizure in Pittsburgh of Florean Zelenaka, a Russian.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 4.—Information obtained from Florean Zelenaka of Brooklyn, arrested here last night with a quantity of dynamite in his possession, may lead to a solution of the Wall street explosion, according to local police and government agents.

Zelenaka was taken to a hotel after a fight with the police, and questioned until early this morning. He had been en route from Cincinnati to New York. Authorities were reticent as to the result of their questioning, but it was claimed clews Zelenaka furnished may lead to scores of arrests in Brooklyn and New York.

Zelenaka is alleged to have remarked to a companion on the train: "Tell them I will have the stuff there tomorrow." Another remark attributed to him as he was being placed in his cell was: "See what we did in Wall street. Next time it will be bigger an' more terrible. The last was only a start."

It was stated at the Federal building that if the facts warranted it, Zelenaka would be held under a federal charge, but if not, he would likely be prosecuted under the State law for transporting explosives and having explosives in his possession.

Zelenaka was taken to the office of the United States marshal.

The arrest of Zelenaka was brought about by a telephone message to police headquarters from an individual describing himself as a "former government agent," who said the prisoner had confided in him that he carried dynamite with which he intended "to do a better job than was done last time"

Zelenaka fought for almost ten minutes before he was rendered unconscious. It was then that dynamite, caps and fuses were found. His first words on recovering consciousness, it is said, were: "The soviet will rule"

Zelenaka said, according to the police, that he came to this country from Poland almost seven years ago; that he has never taken out his first papers; had no intention of becoming a citizen of the United States and added that all that could be done with him would be to "send me back to Russia."

LEAVES ROOM JUST BEFORE BIG EXPLOSION.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—Leon Konkel, a steam fitter, the man who gave the Pittsburgh authorities the information which led to the arrest there last night of Florean Zelenaka of Brooklyn in connection with the Wall street bomb explosion, arrived here today from Pittsburgh, to tell his story to the federal authorities.

Importance was attached to Zelenaka's arrest by government agents, who today searched the man's room in the foreign section of Brooklyn. They declared they learned the prisoner had left the room an hour before the Wall street explosion on September 16, and that he formerly worked for the Hercules Powder company. A suitcase filled with dynamite was found in Zelenaka's room in Pittsburgh

NEW YORK, Oct 4—Florean Zelenaka arrested in Pittsburg with dynamite in his possession, probably is a "crank" according to views of department of justice officials here after they had heard the story of Leon Konkel who caused the arrest of Zelenaka. Flynn, chief of the investigating force of the department of justice The story he told there in the opinion of several officials, brands Zelenaka as a fanatic who had nothing at all to do with the bomb explosion in Wall street

Zelenaka, it has developed left New York when he could find nothing to do here, or when offered inducements to serve as a strikebreaker in the West Virginia coal fields It is known the prisoner first came here to Huntington, W Va and from there to Cincinnati The fact of his being expressed by some officials that Zelenaka obtained the dynamite and fuse he carried in Pittsburgh while working in a mine. This, they believe, constituted his entire stock of explosives What he intended to do with it is problematical None would venture an opinion

Had Knowledge of Use of Explosives

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Florean Zelenaka, arrested in Pittsburgh, left his home in East New York a few hours before the explosion in Wall street, September 16, and has not returned since. He carried a large reddish-yellow bag. These facts were discovered here today by agents of the department of justice who were sent to Zelenaka's rooming house at the home of Michael Terbasky, a tailor.

Zelenaka's room was opened by the United States operatives, who searched drawers of a dresser and a large trunk left behind by Zelenaka. They found a pay envelope, they said, which showed that Zelenaka had worked for the Hercules Powder Co. and must have had knowledge of explosives. They also found he had worked as a motorman on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company and also as a butcher.

JOHNSON IN HARMONY

"I have just received a full stenographic report of the address of Senator Johnson, made at Los Angeles, September 25. It dissipates conclusively any notion that Senator Johnson is out of harmony with the platform and the candidate."

"Senator Johnson repeatedly quoted from the League of Nations address which I delivered on August 28, giving his unqualified approval to it. His speech, with this generous endorsement of the party's platform and my own interpretation of it, brings no surprise to me. More than that, it adds to my confidence that when we have recorded America against the menace which we were being 'let in for,' we are going to be able to have America agree on a program which shall hold us forever free and still play our part in expressing the new conscience of the world."

BEGINS TOUR SOON

One of the Senator's longest campaign trips, taking him to Des Moines, Omaha, Kansas City and Oklahoma City and St. Joseph, Mo., will begin on Wednesday.

Senator Harding left Marion today by motor to make a speech near Fremont, O., seventy miles away, at the dedication of a memorial table in honor of soldiers who lost their lives in the great war.

The nominee and his wife started on the trip in time to take lunch at the home near Fremont of Webb C. Hayes, who is a son of President Rutherford B. Hayes, before the dedication ceremonies. In the address prepared for the occasion, Senator Harding praised the heroism of the American Expeditionary Force and asked that their services be made an example to American citizens in peace-time patriotism. He did not touch on political issues.

The memorial tablet stands in Hayes Memorial Library in the Spiegel Grove State Park, which is a part of the Hayes estate, and today was selected for the unveiling because it is the birthday of the former president.

PROJECTS ENDORSED BY MASS MEETING

"Whereas at a mass meeting of citizens held Saturday, October 2, 1920, including representatives of the labor organizations, the women's clubs, the improvement clubs, the commercial organizations, the Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis clubs, the Progressive Business Club, the Business Development League and other kindred organizations, said meeting having been called jointly by the presidents of the Rotary Club, Lions Club, Kiwanis Club and Progressive Business Club, it was the unanimous opinion of the sixty delegates present that the city council should without delay take all necessary steps for the calling of the proposed bond election, in order that the people of Oakland may register their will upon these matters.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved that we the citizens assembled do hereby call upon and urge the city council of Oakland to call for such bond election to be held on election day, November 2, 1920, and further that we hereby designate and appoint the following committee to present in person to the honorable the city council a copy of these resolutions:

"Leroy R. Goodrich, chairman; Mrs. Frank G. Law, John Smith, Herman Johnson, William A. Knowles, Charles A. Beardsley."

Wilson Pleads for League In Direct Appeal to People

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—President Wilson, in his first campaign appeal today directly to the people, urged the endorsement of the League of Nations issue at the election and declared "the whole world will wait for your verdict in November, as it would wait for an intimation of what its future is to be."

The President characterized as "absolutely false assertions that Article X of the league covenant would make it possible for other nations to lead the United States into war. There was nothing in the covenant, he said, "which in the least interferes with or impairs the right of Congress to declare war or not declare war, according to its own independent judgment, as our Constitution provides."

"My fellow countrymen" was the President's method of addressing his communication to the people. It contained no mention of presidential candidates by name, but was confined to a brief defense of Article X and criticism of those who, he declared, had "grossly misled" the public with regard to the treaty.

"IGNORANCE," HE SAYS.

The President said that those who had spent their lives, as he had, "in familiarizing themselves with the history and traditions and policies of the nation must stand amazed at the gross ignorance and impudent audacity which had led them to attempt to invent an 'Americanism' which has no foundation whatever in any of the authentic traditions of the government."

The text of the appeal follows:

"My fellow countrymen: The issues of the present campaign are of such tremendous importance and of such far-reaching significance for the influence of the country and the development of its future relations and I have necessarily had so much to do with their development, that I am sure you will think it natural and proper that I should address to you a few words concerning them. Everyone who sincerely believes in government by the people must rejoice at the turn affairs have taken in regard to this campaign. This election is to be a genuine national referendum. The determination of a great policy upon which the influence and authority of the United States in the world must depend is not to be left to groups of politicians of either party, but is to be referred to the people themselves for a sovereign mandate to their representatives. They are to instruct their own government what they wish done.

IS VITAL QUESTION.

"The chief question that is put to you is, of course, this:

"Do you want your country's honor vindicated and the treaty of Versailles ratified? Do you in particular approve of the League of Nations as organized and empowered in that treaty? And do you wish to see the United States play its responsible part in it? You have been grossly misled with regard to the treaty, and particularly with regard to the proposed character of the League of Nations, by those who have assumed the serious responsibility of opposing it. They have gone so far that those spent my life, in familiarizing themselves with the history and traditions and policies of the nation, must stand amazed at the gross ignorance and impudent audacity which has led them to attempt to invent an Americanism of their own, which has no foundation whatever in any of the authentic traditions of the government.

"Americanism, as they conceive it, reverses the whole process of the last few tragical years. It would substitute America for Prussia in the policy of isolation and defiant segregation. Their conception of the dignity of the nation and its interest is that we should stand apart and watch for opportunities to advance our own interests, involve ourselves in no responsibility for the maintenance of the right in the world, or for the continued vindication of any of the things for which we entered the war to fight.

CREATORS OPPOSED.

"The conception of the great creators of the government was absolutely opposite to this. They thought of America as the light of the world; as created to lead the world in the assertion of the rights of the peoples and the rights of free nations; as destined to set a responsible example to all the world of what free government is and can do for the maintenance of right standards, both national and international. This light the opponents of the league would quench. They would relegate the United States to a subordinate role in the affairs of the world.

"Why should we be afraid of responsibilities which we are qualified to sustain, and which the whole of our history has constituted a promise to the world we would sustain. This is the most momentous issue that has ever been presented to the people of the United States, and I do not doubt that the hope of the whole world will be verified by an absolute assertion by the voters of the country of the determination of the United States to live up to all the great expectations which they created by entering the war and enabling the other great nations of the world to bring it to a victorious conclusion, to the confusion of Prussianism and everything that arises out of Prussianism. Surely we shall not fail to keep the promise sealed in the death and sacrifice of our incomparable soldiers, sailors and mariner who await our verdict beneath the soil of France.

ARGUMENT DENIED.

"Those who do not care to tell you the truth about the League of Nations tell you that Article X of the covenant of the league would make it possible for other nations to lead us into war, whether we willed it by our own independent judgment or not. This is absolutely false. There is nothing in the covenant which in the least interferes with or impairs the right of Congress to declare war or not declare war, according to its own judgment, as our Constitution provides. Those who drew the covenant of the league were careful that it should contain nothing which interfered with or impaired the constitutional arrangements of any of the great nations which are to constitute its members. They would have been amazed and indignant at the things that are now being ignorantly said about this great and sincere document.

your verdict in November, as it would wait for an intimation of what its future is to be.

"WOODROW WILSON."

DAYTON, O., Oct. 4.—Governor Cox was given a warm "welcome home" reception last night, upon returning from his month's western trip. The candidate was cheered by several thousand persons as he stepped from his private car, which had carried him more than 11,000 miles through all states west of the Mississippi river, except Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana.

He was met at the station by Mrs. Cox and many personal friends. The crowd insisted that he talk and followed him to his newspaper office, where the candidate mounted the ledge of the building and expressed his appreciation for the welcome. He spoke only a few minutes, saying the proprieties of the Sabbath forbade him talking on subjects he had discussed during his trip. He then went to his home at Trailsend, where he expects to rest for a couple of days.

MEETS ROOSEVELT.

En route here from Kansas City, conference with Franklin D. Roosevelt, his running mate, who rode from Terre Haute to Indianapolis with his chief. Roosevelt then left to continue his second western trip.

At several cities today crowds met Governor Cox's train and with politics barred on the Sabbath, he spoke a few words of greeting and held rear platform receptions clad in his pajamas, swathed in an overcoat.

A statement issued tonight by Governor Cox, reviewing his western campaign described it as "a wonderful trip—with just one rainy day."

Declaring that the western people are "independent," the governor's statement said in part.

"They realized the last month just what the maintained reactionary propaganda has meant. The thing they resent most is the deliberate withholding of the facts bearing upon present conditions.

CHANGE DESIRED.

"Following the war, with all of its disturbing elements, there is no question but what there was a feeling that a turn in the road was desirable and a political change was generally discussed. The voters, however, are realizing in the west that the political change which they had in mind meant the reintrenchment of the same old gang that Roosevelt drove out in 1912. The patronizing attitude of the senatorial oligarchy has offended the west and the plan of making the people come to the senatorial front porch had developed into a comedy before we reached the coast.

"In communities, large and small, paid emissaries from Republican national headquarters are actually tramping on each other's toes. Apparently every camp follower in America is on the payroll. Evidence of the expenditure of money is so apparent that there is no longer a doubt about the alliance between big business grasping profiteers and the senatorial oligarchy."

Regarding the league of nations issue, Governor Cox's statement said that there was "enthusiastic response," and resentment because, he said, the opposition was withholding evidence on the issue.

The west resents, Governor Cox declared, the league situation in which Senator and former President Taft both support Senator Harding.

"In every audience," said the statement, "the prevalent belief was that Senator Harding was either attempting to maintain a deceitful attitude or was groping about with such uncertainty himself that public confidence was not promoted."

After a conference with Governor Cox, Roosevelt stated that he found increased interest in the league during his campaigning of the last ten days.

"Dyed-in-the-wool politicians at first asked me not to discuss it," he said.

"Now they clamor for it, saying, 'Talk league and nothing else.' That means something."

Governor Cox will take three days rest before starting, next Wednesday, upon another campaign trip through Kentucky and Tennessee.

Bandits Kill Society Girl, Shoot Fiance

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 4.—Miss Florence Barton, 24, prominent in younger society circles of Kansas City, was shot and killed last night by unknown persons while riding in a motor car with Howard R. Winter, 27, her fiance, it became known today. Winter was wounded.

According to Winter, the shooting was done by bandits in a motor car. Miss Barton was a daughter of Kimber L. Barton, president of a local shoe concern. Winter is the son of a prominent real estate dealer.

The shooting took place on a lonely road in a suburban residence section.

According to Winter's story to the authorities, he had stopped his car, a closed one, to light a cigar when three men approached in another car. One of the men asked directions for going to Lee's Summit, Mo. When he had been told, Winter said, the man leaped upon the running board of Winter's car, with a revolver in his hand. Winter said he involuntarily raised his hand to his face to protect himself and the intruder fired. The shot struck him in the left arm. Remembering that there was a revolver in a pocket of one of the car doors, Winter told the police, he reached for the weapon. More shots were fired by the stranger. Miss Barton cried out that she had been wounded. Winter says he then begged the man to stop shooting. The man agreed, but ordered him to turn off the car lights. The man then signalled his companions, who turned their car around. The party then disappeared, Winter said.

He then drove his own car to a country residence near by and aroused the occupants. The owner of the place drove him and Miss Barton to Raytown, Mo., where they were given medical treatment by Dr. W. W. Hobbs, who suggested Miss Barton be taken to a sanitarium in Independence, a Kansas City suburb. Miss Barton died on the way, Dr. Hobbs said.

Christensen Scores Democrats, G. O. P.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4.—Parley P. Christensen, Farmer-Labor candidate for president, scored the Democrate and Republican parties in an address yesterday.

"This is a great Democratic movement, the purpose of which is to destroy class government," he said, adding: "Of course, if a press man gets this and writes it, it will be laid aside on the desk."

He called Senator Harding "Uncle Warren" and Governor Cox "Fussy Jimmie"; recounted his disappointment at the failure of the Republican party to "wake up" in Roosevelt's time and the failure of the Democratic party to be born anew at the Baltimore convention, and said:

"That year, I must confess with some humiliation, I voted for Wilson." There was scattered applause.

"I conclude," said Christensen, "that you are applauding my humiliation."

GIFFORD PINCHOT, BACKING HARDING, ATTACKS WILSON

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4—Gifford Pinchot, former leader of the Progressive party, came out today in a decided statement for Senator Harding. His statement follows:

"I am a follower of Theodore Roosevelt, alive or dead. While he was here I worked with him and supported him. Now that he has gone to his reward, I stand for the principles and work for the things for which he worked and stood. I am a Roosevelt Republican.

"Had he lived my choice for the Republican nominee and for the next president would have been Theodore Roosevelt. But only the spirit of Roosevelt is with us still. The Republican convention has perforce chosen another candidate. I can not have what I wanted. That, however, is no reason for throwing my vote away.

NO ONE MAN RULE

"Senator Harding and I have opposed each other in politics. He was regular in 1912, while I followed Roosevelt; and I can never be glad enough that I did. He has said things about Roosevelt which I deeply resented; I have said things about Harding which he must have resented just as deeply; and I have not forgotten. He has many friends who are not mine, and there is not a little in his record that I regret. On the other hand, I find deep in his confidence men whom I trust; what I like least in his record is farthest back, and what he has said about forestry, conservation and agriculture at Marion is sound and right.

"Senator Harding was not made to my order, but he is by no means the reactionary I thought him. He is a Republican regular, who supports what his party agrees on, and acts with the majority. There is nothing autocratic about him. Under him, there will be no one-man rule at Washington. Congress will represent not the President but the people, and the government will be American again.

TIRED OF DEMOCRATS

"I want to see Harding elected not only because I have come to think well of him, but because he belongs to the party of Lincoln and Roosevelt, and because I have had my fill of the Democrats at Washington. We must have in charge men and a party capable of running the government, and in the White House a President, not a boss.

"Cox stands for Palmer, who promised to reduce the cost of living and conspicuously failed, but for political reasons let the liquor traffic go on; who denied the rights of free speech and free assembly; imprisoned hundreds of people in defiance of the law he was sworn to enforce; and turned over to the Southern Pacific railroad without a struggle $300,000,000 worth of oil lands in California to which it had no right. That Palmer was seriously considered for the nomination at San Francisco shows how low the Democrats have fallen. There may have been more unfaithful public servants than Mitchell Palmer, but not many.

"If a man believes in Wilson, argument is useless. As for me, I hold that it is time to finish with all that smacks of Wilson, with the inefficiency, extravagance, and secretiveness, with the national and international blundering, and with the impudent assumption of wisdom and righteousness beyond human. The only way to repudiate Wilson is to vote against Cox.

"Finally, Cox is too reckless in statement, too shifty in argument, too much like a man running for a little office in a little town. His speeches shout it aloud—Cox is too small to be President. Harding's speeches could have come only from a man big enough to handle the job."

ALAMEDA COUNTY REGISTRATION 80 PCT. REPUBLICAN

A record registration, with 80 percent of the voters Republican, will mean an overwhelming Republican majority in Alameda county, according to J. C. Holland, chairman of the county central committee.

Holland announced today that plans are complete for a Harding-Coolidge meeting at G. A. R. hall on Thursday night, when Governor Wm. D. Stephens and Samuel M. Shortridge will be the speakers.

"It is conservative to state," said Holland, "that over 80 percent of the [illegible] is Republican. The first step toward Republican success has been completed and the result is in excess of what we expected.

"The next step is to take every possible measure to get the voters to go to the polls on November 2. The figures will not be ready for a few days, but it will be found that the ratio of new registrations is even more overwhelmingly Republican than that on the great register during the primaries. The figures then were 102,574 Republicans to 25,671 Democrats and all others were less than 18,000.

"Never before has there been such a complete organization of the women voters."

C. E. Cope, life-long Republican and merchant of Livermore, is organizing a Harding-Coolidge club in the eastern part of the county.

Mrs. Hume Tells of Visit Paid to Harding

Her personal visit to the home of Senator Warren G. Harding, candidate for the presidency of the United States, at Marion, Ohio, was described by Mrs. James B. Hume, member of the state Republican committee, at the regular Monday afternoon meeting of the Alameda County Republican Women's Club today. Mrs. Hume accompanied the California delegation last month on the special trip to the Harding headquarters. Plans for launching an intensive campaign on behalf of the Republican candidates were perfected today.

Republican headquarters are established at 415 Thirteenth street. Women of the party meet in campaign rally every Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. B. C. Eddy, president, and officers of the county club are in attendance daily.

A Thursday night mass meeting is announced, when Samuel Shortridge, candidate for United States senator, will be the principal speaker. He will address the Republicans of Berkeley on Friday night.

A Harding-Coolidge - Shortridge Club will be organized tomorrow night at the home of Mrs. Peter Johnson, 3033 Deakin street, Berkeley, by Mrs R. C. Young. Congressman J. A. Elston is scheduled to speak.

Richmond this morning, convictions being secured in every instance.

BALL BRIBE JURY TO DO THOROUGH JOB IN PROBE

BY UNITED PRESS.
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4. — Charges involving two new major league clubs in connection with the recent expose of crookedness in baseball will be taken up by the Cook county grand jury when it resumes its probe here tomorrow of the "fixing" of the 1919 world series.

The investigators will also take up the charge that the August 31 game here between Philadelphia and the Cubs was "fixed." Allegations that games between the Giants and Cincinnati Reds in 1919 were crooked also will be considered.

John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants; Benny Kauff and Fred Toney, members of the Giants, were expected to testify regarding attempts to bribe New York players.

According to a published report here today, the Sox threw at least three games on the last eastern trip. Sox players may be subpenaed to testify regarding this. The inside story of the alleged throwing of the 1919 world series and of games during the 1920 season will probably be sought from Ray Schalk, premier White Sox backstop.

Schalk, it was said, was the first to notice something wrong. His signals, according to reports, were crossed by Eddie Cicotte and Claude Williams, Chicago pitchers, who have confessed theey accepted bribes to throw games.

William J. Fallon, attorney for Abe Attell, denied today the former featherweight boxing champion had any part in the "fixing" of the 1919 world series.

According to Fallon, Attell met Bill Burns, former major league pitcher, here when Abe was "slightly under the influence of liquor." Fallon said Burns made a proposition to Arnold Rothstein, New York sporting man, to "fix" the world series, and that "Rothstein had abused him." Then Fallon said Burns asked Attell to use his influence with Rothstein and Abe had the same experience, Rothstein "bawling him out" for making the proposition. He said this ended Abe's connection with the alleged proposition.

C. OF C. READY TO ENTERTAIN NAVAL JUNKET

Arrangements for the reception of the congressional commission on the Pacific coast naval base will be made by the naval base committee of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce and interested Alamedans at a luncheon in the Hotel Oakland next Friday.

W. W. Chapin, chairman of the committee, issued the call for the meeting today, urging every member to attend in order that all plans be made for showing the Alameda site to the congressmen and impressing upon them the necessity for a naval base on the Pacific coast.

BAY FAVORED BY RODMAN.

Two strong arguments in the opinion of the committee, are the views expressed by congressmen just returning from a tour of the Orient and a recent statement by Admiral Hugh Rodman, declaring emphatically in favor of San Francisco bay.

The congressmen are due here soon after the national election. The tentative date at present is November 16. Congressman J. A. Elston is now in correspondence with them regarding a definite date.

FIVE FROM EACH HOUSE.

The commission consists of five members of the senate and five members of the house, as follows:

Senators—L. Heisler Ball, Delaware, chairman; Medill McCormick, Illinois; Henry W. Keys, New Hampshire; Thomas J. Walsh, Montana, and Key Pittman, Nevada.

Representatives—Fred A. Britten, Illinois, chairman; Patrick H. Kelley, Michigan; Frederick C. Hicks, New York; Lemuel P. Padgett, Tennessee, and Daniel J. Riordan, New York.

Britten, Hicks, Padgett and Riordan were members of the congressional party which inspected the Alameda site in March of last year.

A luxury—
but popular priced

IF made in small quantities, as a luxury facial soap, Palmolive would be very expensive. Palm and Olive oils are imported from over-seas. Their price is naturally high.

But the demand for Palmolive keeps our factories working day and night. We purchase these rare oils in enormous quantities. This keeps the cost of manufacture low and gives you the finest of facial soaps made at the price of an ordinary cleanser.

Simple, Sure and Easy
this way to a pretty skin

HERE is the safe, sure way to a smooth, healthy, blooming skin. An easy way, so simple that many women will say it can't be true.

It calls for no medication, it requires no special treatment. It is simply helping nature by aiding the natural action of the skin.

For when you know the skin is composed of countless minute glands and tiny pores you will understand that it must be kept clean. Accumulations of dirt, oil and dried perspiration clog and irritate and ugly blotches result.

This cleansing can only be done with soap, pure, soothing soap which does its work without harshness. Such soap is yours in Palmolive, mildest yet most thorough of cleansers.

In classic days Palm and Olive oils served both as cleanser and also as a lotion. Ancient records picture their use and record the benefits.

Now, though centuries have passed, these same oriental oils still hold their place as cleansing cosmetics. Their blend in Palmolive has made them famous the world over.

It has produced a soap with a thick, penetrating lather, which cleanses like magic while it soothes, leaving the skin smooth as velvet.

If you value the health of your skin, wash your face daily—wash it thoroughly. Wash it with Palmolive Soap.

VAMPS OF SOUTH SEAS FOUGHT BY SOLONS' WIVES

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4—"Vampirish" tendencies of certain "unattached" members of the congressional party which has just returned from an extended tour of the Far East, proved the one fly in the ointment of the legislative excursion, according to Congressman John H Small, who was located today in headquarters at the Palace hotel

While he declined to divulge details of experiences with the "vamps" of the South Seas, he admitted that their appearance on the scene of the tour bred dissatisfaction and finally even "mutiny" on the part of other women members of the party. In this he was corroborated by Mrs. Small.

It was, he intimated, during the trip between Japan and China, and for some days thereafter, that two "unattached" women joined the congressional group Their presence was first felt by the party with the securing of the best accommodation by them, and in some mysterious manner even the coveted deck chairs were occupied by the newcomers

The same situation prevailed when the party embarked again from Manila

Then mutiny broke

From a hurried conference of wives and members of congressional families, came the ultimatum to Congressman Small that something must be done He did it, accepting the place as director pro tem of he entire group

How the legislator managed to straighten the situation out is not known, the only statement obtainable on this point being:

"Things were suitably adjusted when he arrived in Shanghai The party split up there, you know"

Let Japanese Problem Here Settle Itself, Urges Nippon

TOKYO, Oct. 4 (by the Associated Press)—An inquiry into the situation between Japan and the United States by persons in high position who follow the trend of events in modern Japan, but who may not be characterized as official, has evolved the following as summarizing the situation growing out of the proposed California anti-Japanese measures:

First—A genuine feeling of apprehension pervades responsible Japanese quarters over the anti-Japanese movements in the United States, because of the fear that it may lead to intensified exclusion movements against the Japanese elsewhere, especially in the British dominions

Second—The Japanese contend that if the Japanese question in California is left alone it will settle itself, because when the present settlers, who cannot be naturalized, either die or return to Japan only their legal American posterity will remain, who in the course of generations, will be assimilated

Third—The Japanese contend that Americans are confusing the present negotiations, which are aimed at protecting the acquired rights of the Japanese now in California, with the general question of immigration, which is not involved.

Fourth—The Japanese maintain that the voting of the California measure would add fuel to the anti-American sentiment This sentiment is being steadily engendered by anti-American articles in the Japanese newspapers

SECRETLY DISTURBED

Fifth—While genuinely alarmed at the anti-Japanese movements abroad, the leading Japanese secretly are disturbed at the growth of the individualist movement at home arising from the dissatisfaction of the people over the economic and political conditions and poverty in large cities, the discontent of laborers resulting from the absorption of social ideas from the West, hostility to capitalism, lack of suitable opportunity for personal progress, and a tendency to blame the nation's leaders for inability to check what they term Japan's moral isolation from the rest of the world.

Sixth—China remains Japan's greatest hope and her greatest problem Japanese leaders claim that the Americans are blocking Japanese progress in China, in the Far East generally Japan must find an outlet and opportunities for her population, which is increasing at the rate of 700,000 yearly," said one official

Seventh—To a direct question put by a correspondent whether war was a possibility, the reply of this official and of leading Japanese civilians unvaryingly is that war with America is of course, an impossibility; that it was regrettable that an estrangement in friendly relations was within the range of possibility. The replies were unanimous that the Japanese believe the time has arrived when they must "speak out frankly in defense of our interests and say what we want to in the world"

Another person in an interview added to this

"You Americans should remember that if you have a political situation at home we also have one in Japan"

The importance that Japan gives to China is evidenced in a review of Japanese and American relations appearing in the Herald of Asia, a conservative weekly of Japanese thought After maintaining that the California measures are based on prejudices born of differences in race, religion and culture, this journal declares that these prejudices and the resultant attitude toward Asiatics are not confined to Americans but are common to all the white peoples

DIFFERENCE ACCENTUATED

The greater the contact Americans had with the Japanese and other Asiatics only accentuated the points of difference and sharpened the edge of prejudice and dislike, this organ says

After declaring that no possible compromise on the California question could appreciably remove the fundamental causes for what it terms the misunderstandings between the two nations the Herald of Asia declares that the danger is increased and rendered more acutal by the extension of anti-Japanese prejudices in Far Eastern fields especially in China, "where the Americans, with the willing co-operation of the British, miss no opportunity of showing up the Japanese in the worst possible light before the Chinese, thus trying to keep the two Asiatic nations estranged"

The newspaper charges that the Americans think that thus they advance their economic and political interests, but it expresses the belief that one day China will awaken to what it terms the common dangers imperiling the development of the Asiatic races.

When Asia awakens again to play its role in world history, says the newspaper, "every deed of injustice and unmerited provocation experienced at the hands of the egotistical nations in the West inevitably will add to the combined bitterness of Asiatic sentiment toward the West"

The mystery of the cause of death and the paternity of a baby boy found wrapped in a bundle among old shoes and cobbler's tools in a shoe shop at 964 Twenty-fourth street is puzzling the police and inspectors of central division today

Unusual features of the case cause the police to attach more than ordinary significance to the report of the find

When A Paladini the cobbler, came down to work today he found the lock had been picked on the rear door There among bundles of shoes left for repair was a bundle larger than all the rest It was carefully wrapped in heavy paper and had been securely tied with cord and ribbon His curiosity aroused, Paladini opened it first of all the rest He gasped in horror when he uncovered the still form of the dead infant.

Immediately Paladini notified the police and the morgue was ordered to take charge of the body The infant appeared to be of American parentage It was only a few days old at the most the police declared

There were no marks of violence to be found on the body Inspectors Frank Rossick and Richard McSorley have been assigned to the case and will make a thorough investigation

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU

First Step in Treatment is a Brisk Purgative With Calotabs, the Purified and Refined Calomel Tablets That Are Nauseless Safe and Sure.

Doctors have found by experience that no medicine for colds and influenza can be depended upon for full effectiveness until the liver is made thoroughly active That is why the first step in the treatment is the new nauseless calomel tablet called Calotabs which are free from the sickening and weakening effects of the old style calomel Doctors also point out the fact that an active liver may go a long way towards preventing influenza and is one of the most important factors in enabling the patient to successfully withstand an attack and ward off pneumonia

One Calotab on the tongue at bed time, with a swallow of water—that's all No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, pleasure or work Next morning your cold has vanished your liver is active, your system is purified, and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Druggists sell Calotabs only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents Your money will be cheerfully refunded if you do not find them delightful—Advertisement

BARON GOTO RAPS JAPAN OUTBURSTS

TOKYO, Oct 4 (By the Associated Press)—Anti-American outbursts by the Japanese press are strongly deprecated by Baron Shimpei Goto, former minister of foreign affairs, who may be Japan's next premier He refuses to lead an attack against the Japanese government over its American policy and in a statement to the correspondent of Reuter's, Ltd., expresses hope that a settlement of the American-Japanese movement in California may be reached

"The anti-Japanese situation" he said, "is merely a phase of the presidential election and is part of the general question which the wisest statesmen on both sides of the Pacific must face with a view to securing a settlement The question of ownership of land in California is not the real issue, but only a part of the real issue, which is a question of discrimination. The Japanese people must remain cool and refuse to permit the vote-catching politicians in either country to stampede them, while responsible statesmen must later seek a proper solution of the problem It must be settled honorably on both sides and the Japanese must appeal to the sense of honor and justice of America"

The tension between the United States and Japan is causing serious concern to responsible Japanese statesmen and to all the friends of both countries, who hope for a cessation of alarmist reports which are influencing both sides of the present controversy The Japan-American Society has decided to send two members to America to endeavor to secure a better understanding of the Japanese case in California and other questions and to allay the feeling in America that Japan is looking for trouble.

These delegates have been selected, but it is still uncertain whether the mission would be accepted Meanwhile it has been decided to cable a request to the Japanese Society of New York City to redouble its efforts to dispell the clouds on both sides of the Pacific

South San Francisco Is Now Mining Town

SAN FRANCISCO Oct 4—South San Francisco is now a mining town Few people, however, are aware of it as mining operations started only two weeks ago and the purpose of the tunnel, which was begun but two blocks from the new city hall was kept a secret until yesterday, when the news leaked out that the operators had reasons to believe they will strike a silver lode

The mining operations have been capitalized by a group of local business men and a mining man from Alaska is in charge Mineralogists from the University of California and Stanford have been called in to inspect the outcroppings Their reports have not been made public The posting of an armed guard over the property at nighttime has added mystery to the reported silver strike.

Officer Saves Woman From Thug's Attack

Attacked near her home at 1533 Seventh street, Celia Smith, 28, colored, escaped the brutality of a colored assailant because of the prompt appearance of Patrolman George Handcock, who rescued her The negro started flight as soon as Handcock appeared and made good his escape.

The woman says she was on her way home at a late hour when a colored man, described as heavy set leaped out from behind a signboard seized her by the throat and began choking her She screamed before he had time to shut off her outcry, and it was that terror-stricken cry that brought Handcock on the scene Handcock gained a good description of the man.

HAIR IS PULLED IN BEACH CAFE FIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4—Forrest Arnold, Mrs Mabel Arnold, his divorced wife, Mrs. Georgia Arrell, who was named Arnold's affinity in the court proceedings, and Leon Kuttner secretary of the Pacific Embroidery company and friend of Mrs. Arnold staged a hair pulling, fist fight, last night at Tait's Beach cafe, the discord growing out of the legal entanglement, according to witnesses and friends of the party

Mrs Arnold is alleged to have fastened her hand in Mrs Arrell's hair and fainted Arnold and Kuttner met on the dance floor Arnold struck at his wife's companion and hit his own partner onlookers declare The men then adjourned to the porch to continue their discussion but were separated by waiters. The story of the fray is related by Frank Woody, friend of Mrs Arnold and spectator Mrs Arrell denies that her tresses were pulled by Mrs. Arnold. Arnold cannot be found to deny the alleged loss of two front teeth

The trouble started when the parties of the husband and wife encountered each other at the beach resort Mrs Arrell was brought into the case between the couple while she was in New York Upon her return she objected to the publicity which she had attained, and filed a petition to have Mrs Arnold's decree of divorce set aside until she could be heard Arrell testified to implicit faith in his wife's fidelity

Testimony of their nine-year-old son that he had seen Arnold choke and beat his mother won for Mrs Arnold the decree. Arnold had previously charged his wife with relations with two men Mrs Arnold retaliated by naming Mrs Arrell. Arnold and Arrell were friends

NEW YORK CITY HAS 5,620,048; STATE 10,384,144

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—New York state, the most populous in the country, has a population of 10,384,144, an increase of 1,270,530, or 13.9 per cent over that of ten years ago. Populations of three other states also were announced today by the census bureau.

Texas has 4,661,027 inhabitants, an increase of 764,485 or 18.6 per cent over 1910. New Jersey with a population of 3,155,374 showed an increase of 618,207 or 24.4 per cent. Idaho, with a population of 431,826 increased 106,232, or 32.6 per cent.

12.9 PER CENT GROWTH.

New York's growth was the second largest in its history but was 575,190 below that for the decade ending in 1910. Its percentage increase was next to the lowest on record, a growth of 12.9 per cent being shown for the decade ended with 1870.

Revised statistics on New York city's population, also announced today show the city to have absorbed practically two-thirds of the entire state's growth. The revised population of the city was announced as 5,620,048, an increase of 853,165 or 17.9 per cent. This w as 1103 less than the population previously announced.

Manhattan 2,284,103, decrease 47,439 or 2.0 per cent. Bronx 732,016, increase 301,306 or 69.8 per cent. Brooklyn 2,018,356, increase 384,005 or 23.5 per cent. Richmond 116,531, increase 30,562 or 35.6 per cent. Queens 469,042, increase 185,999 or 65.1 per cent. Yonkers, N. Y. (revised), 100,176, increase 20,373 or 25.5 per cent.

TEXAS IS FIFTH.

Texas is expected to retain its present rank of fifth most populous state. Although its numerical growth was large, the rate showed its lowest relative increase.

New Jersey, which ranged eleventh in 1910, passes Indiana and Georgia in the 1920 census rank. The state showed its second largest numerical growth on record.

Idaho passes New Mexico and Vermont in the 1920 list of states. It showed its second greatest numerical growth, but its relative increase was the lowest in its history.

ROBE THEFT CHARGED.

Noah Beagles, no address, no occupation, was taken into custody last evening by Patrolman Powell A. Pierce on Eleventh street between Washington and Broadway as he was in the act of decamping with an automobile robe taken from a machine driven by Al Hopkins. He was arraigned before Acting Police Judge Ralph V. Richmond today and the case adjourned until tomorrow.

800 DELEGATES TO ATTEND S. F. MASON SESSION

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—More than 800 delegates, representing 400 subordinate lodges of the California Masonic Grand Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, will attend the opening meeting of the seventy-first session of the order tomorrow in San Francisco, according to an estimate made today.

In a review of business activities which are scheduled to mark the first of the session, Grand Secretary John Wicher today made known the unusual increase in membership for the last year.

This report, he said, will mark one of the most important phases to be brought before the conference, due to the enormous increase enjoyed by the organization. For 1920 the membership roles show an increase of more than 9100 members. This is compared with the previous yearly gain of 3909, heretofore the record.

State lodges leading in membership gains are as follows: Hollenbeck Lodge, No. 319, Los Angeles, 1204 members; Live Oak Lodge, No. 61, of Oakland, second with 915; Mission Lodge, No. 169, San Francisco, third, with a total of 912.

Activities on Wednesday's session include an address to be given by William T. Filmer, on American Red Cross matters, and an address by Grand Orator A. E. Boynton.

Movie-Inspired "Bad Men" Back in School

A career of adventure on which Melvin Nail and Vernon Barnholt, 12-year-old Oakland schoolboys, embarked on Friday had come to a close today when the boys reappeared in school.

When the boys disappeared from their homes in Elmhurst they left notes declaring that a life of adventure was the life for them. Police were notified by parents anxious to make more adventure for the youths and search parties in the hills were organized.

Yesterday a railroad detective recognized the boys on the Benicia ferry and hooked them up. He put them on an Oakland bound train where they were met by another policeman and escorted to their homes at 1120 Ninetieth avenue and 9104 D street.

Both boys have promised hereafter to be satisfied with the movies.

Foreign Trade Total 14 Billion in 1920

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The foreign trade of the United States for 1920 will approximate $14,000,000,000, according to estimates compiled by the National City bank. This total compares with $11,000,000,000 in 1919; $9,000,000,000 in 1918 and 1917, slightly less than $8,000,000,000 in 1916, about $5,000,000,000 in 1915 and about $4,277,000,000 in 1913.

ALIEN LAND LAW GETS ITS FIRST TEST IN COURT

VISALIA, Oct. 4.—The California anti-alien land law seemed to be toward its way to its first serious test in court today.

When the case of the State of California vs. H. Sumida, a Japanese, et al, filed here a few weeks ago under the land law, was called before Superior Judge Wallace this morning, L. H. Smith, chief counsel for Sumida, interposed formally a motion that the case be transferred to the U. S. district court.

An argument which took up all the morning session of the court and which gave promise of running over into the afternoon resulted.

Smith based his motion on the grounds that the case involves questions covered in the Constitution of the United States, and that Sumida, the defendant, is a citizen of Japan, and not in this case within the jurisdiction of State courts.

Property valued at approximately a half million dollars, located near Visalia, is involved in the action which was filed by Attorney-General U. S. Webb. Webb asks that the property revert to the State, on the ground that it is owned by Sumida in violation of the law which forbids land ownership by persons not eligible to citizenship.

The argument this morning attracted many to the courtroom. Close observers considered that should the court rule that the case be transferred to the Federal court, the entire question of the validity of the California law would be opened for decision eventually by the U. S. Supreme court.

C. OF C. TO GREET MOTOR CARAVAN

Plans for a great public reception of the national park-to-park highway caravan when it arrives in Oakland next Sunday will be made a joint luncheon meeting of the Good Roads and Lincoln Highway committees of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce in the Hotel Oakland tomorrow.

Stephen T. Mather, director of national parks, who arrived here today to join the tourists, has been invited to attend. Mather was in conference with Chamber of Commerce officials this afternoon.

It is probable that the motorists, who are mapping out a route for a hard-surfaced road connecting all the national parks in the west, will be entertained at a smoker by the Chamber of Commerce, to which the entire membership of 2500 will be invited. This smoker will be held on the evening of Monday, October 11, as the road mappers plan to spend the two days of their stay here.

The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce may give the party a luncheon next Monday.

Latest reports from the caravan are that it is keeping right on schedule and that the project of obtaining congressional aid for the construction of the road is receiving backing everywhere.

Andrew J. Gallagher's Wine Case Continued

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—The hearing of Andrew J. Gallagher, sealer of weights and measures, who was arrested Saturday for a violation of the national prohibition amendment, today was continued by U. S. Commissioner Krull until tomorrow morning, upon the representation of Attorney Anthony Decoto, who said pressure of official business and the fact his client was moving from Larkspur to San Francisco made necessary the postponement. Bail was arraigned at $250.

Gallagher was intercepted by an enforcement officer at the Ferry building early Saturday morning, while he was waiting for a ferryboat to transport himself and an automobile to Sausalito. The enforcement officer claims he found a quantity of wine in the vehicle.

Henry P. Squire, Veteran Printer, Publisher, Dies

H. P. SQUIRE

Funeral of Former Business Manager of TRIBUNE to Be Held Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Henry P. Squire, veteran newspaper man and Oakland manufacturer, who died Sunday, will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Squire home, 11 Dormidera avenue, Piedmont.

Squire, who for several years was business manager of The TRIBUNE when the paper was in its infancy, died suddenly following a month's illness.

The history of the veteran publisher dates back to the late seventies. Squire at the age of eighteen became associated with William E. Dargie, founder of The TRIBUNE. He soon became business manager, graduating from office boy to bookkeeper and then to the managership. The office of The TRIBUNE was then on Twelfth street.

In the early eighties Squire became part owner of the Oakland Morning Times with Frank Moffit. This partnership was dissolved in 1895, and Squire engaged in the printing business on Broadway, between Eighth and Ninth streets. Three years later, in 1898, came the Alaskan gold rush. He sold his printing business and hurried to Alaska, where he was identified in the early mining days with many of the best known mining promoters of Alaska. He came back two years later and went into the ship supply business in San Francisco. Ten years ago he disposed of that business and engaged in making [illegible] president of the Acetylene Appliance Manufacturing Company of Oakland.

Squire was 62 years old. He was born in Hastings, Minn., and came to California when he was four years old. He received his education in the San Francisco and Oakland schools. He attended the old Washington grammar school in this city.

A widow, Mrs. Mabel Blair Squire, and a sister, Mrs. F. S. Crawford, survive. There were no children.

"Malicious Arrest" Suit Asks $10,000

Asking $10,000 from G. H. Blake for "malicious arrest and imprisonment," Charles H. Darlington appeared in the Superior Court today before Judge Joseph Koford in his suit to recover damages.

Darlington says Blake charged him with stealing an automobile October 26, that he was placed in jail for six days and was exonerated November 5, 1919.

The suit of Lucile, Dale, Merrill and Maud Johnson against Dr. M. M. Enos and the St. Anthony hospital for $50,000 for the death of Calvin Johnson, a mechanic, who, it is alleged, died from lack of proper attention, was continued.

LIQUOR SUSPECT FORFEITS BOND

Felix Arnold, wealthy rancher of the Castro valley and well-known resident of the Eastbay district, failed to appear for trial in the United States District Court in San Francisco today on a charge of violating the prohibition law and United States District Judge Morris T. Dooling immediately declared forfeited Arnold's bail of $500 and issued a bench warrant for his arrest. Attorney Chauncy Tramutolo, representing Arnold expressed the belief that his client now is in Belgium.

According to Tramutolo, Arnold, after his arrest on a charge of violating the prohibition law, obtained employment as a foreman at the Union Iron Works in San Francisco and soon after disappeared. Tramutolo said the last word received from Arnold had been a letter mailed from Lake Tahoe about two months ago.

Arnold and two companions, A. Borden and H. Desero, were arrested on Arnold's ranch in Castro valley last May and charged with the operation of a still. The still alleged to have been found on Arnold's ranch was in court today, presenting one of the most complicated and bulky exhibits ever brought into the court as an exhibit in a liquor violation case.

The trial of Arnold, Borden and Desero was continued indefinitely. Tramutolo later said that a friend of Arnold's had called at the latter's house at 2226 Courtland avenue and had found the mail box bulging with the accumulation of many weeks of mail.

MAYOR DAVIE WOULD RUN A FERRY ON BAY

Mayor John L. Davie announces that he contemplates establishing a new transbay ferry system as an answer to the increase in rates recently granted the Southern Pacific and Key Route ferries. Mayor Davie once was the head of a ferry company which operated across the bay for several years.

The mayor is dissatisfied with the present ferry fares: He says:

"As the charge is 18 cents per passenger, and each passenger averages 150 pounds, $1.80 is charged for ten passengers. To carry 1500 pounds of freight across the bay, the railroad companies only charge 7 cents per hundredweight.

"Human freight," says Davie, "gets on and off the boats by itself and requires no expense for handling, yet it is charged more than the other freight. Passengers can and should be carried across the bay for 10 cents each, and a reasonable profit can be made on such a charge."

Davie asserts that a ferry could be operated at the foot of Fourteenth street, where the Southern Pacific has its elevated track and where his passengers could go to and from boats in great safety. He also says he has been assured of the support of many backers if he wants to start a new ferry.

"The company could be organized tomorrow if we were sure of the support of the City Council," he said.

BELIEVES WIFE INSANE, TAKES HER TO POLICE

"This woman is under arrest," said J. D. Simmons to the desk sergeant at eastern police division today.

There were tears in Simmons' eyes. The woman, though, appeared unconcerned. Then Simmons began to explain.

"She's been acting strangely for some time," he said. "I have observed it with growing sorrow and alarm. The thing I knew must be done I kept putting off from time to time until finally her condition grew to that stage where it could not be postponed further. So here she is. I brought her."

"Who is she?" asked the sergeant. "And what's she here for?"

"She's my wife. Insanity," said Simmons.

She was booked as Mrs. May Simmons, 1016 Forty-fifth avenue, on suspicion of insanity.

REAL ESTATE MEN OPPOSE GARAGE PERMIT

Taking a hand in the fight waged by Grand avenue property owners against the establishment of a garage at Grand avenue and Staten street, the Oakland real estate board this morning addressed a plea to the city council asking for the establishment of a fixed policy against any commercial edifices fronting Lake Merritt or its streets.

"We ask," says the request, "that no permits be issued for buildings fronting Lakeside park for commercial uses or other uses not in harmony with a purely residential development.

"We ask that proper steps be taken by your honorable body at this time to establish a fixed policy on the part of our municipal government to prevent any encroachment on this area by any commercial or other activity detrimental to its present condition."

A GREAT PUZZLE TO DOCTORS

The most unusual case of Mr. Wm. Butenop of East Oakland, who suffered at last by the headache, has been mastered at last by the FONG WAN HERBS. Mr. Butenop's testimonial reads as follows:

"Oakland, May 14, 1920.

"For about three years I suffered intensely from a very queer sort of Headache. Every day my head pained all over, with high blood pressure. If I ventured out of doors, the pain became more severe. I treated with several doctors, none of whom was able to either diagnose the case or lessen my pain. The last physician that I had said that it would be necessary to operate on the nerves of my spine.

"Being such a great puzzle both to the doctors and myself, I almost gave up in despair, but I finally resolved to try the FONG WAN HERB TEA. The first seven packages of herbs gave me real relief and my headache lessened. Now that I have taken the herbs for four or five weeks, I am not only rid of all my headache, but also of all my other complaints. I feel fine and I believe that I have been permanently cured by the FONG WAN HERBS.

ESCAPED AN OPERATION

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Many Such Cases.

Cairo, Ill.—"Sometime ago I got so bad with female trouble that I thought I would have to be operated on. I had a bad displacement. My right side would pain me. I was so nervous I could not hold a glass of water. Many times I would have to stop my work and sit down or I would fall on the floor in a faint. I consulted several doctors and every one told me the same but I kept fighting to keep from having the operation. I had read so many times of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped my sister so I began taking it. I have never felt better than I have since then and I keep house and am able to do all my work. The Vegetable Compound is certainly one grand medicine."—Mrs. J. R. MATTHEWS, 5411 Sycamore Street, Cairo, Ill.

Of course there are many serious cases that only a surgical operation will relieve. We freely acknowledge this but the above letter, and many others like it, amply prove that many operations are recommended when medicine in many cases is all that is needed.

An Agreeable Surprise.

"About three years ago when I was suffering from a severe cold on my lungs and coughed most of the time night and day, I tried a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was surprised at the promptness with which it gave me relief," writes Mrs. James Brown, Clark Mills, N. Y. Many another has been surprised and pleased with the prompt relief afforded by this remedy. For sale by Osgood Bros. Drug Stores.—Advertisement.

This Is Better Than Laxatives

One NR Tablet Each Night For A Week Will Correct Your Constipation and Make Constant Dosing Unnecessary. Try It.

Poor digestion and assimilation mean a poorly nourished body and low vitality. Poor elimination means clogged bowels, fermentation, putrifaction and the formation of poisonous gases which are absorbed by the blood and carried through the body.

The result is weakness, headaches, dizziness, coated tongue, inactive liver, bilious attacks, loss of energy, nervousness, poor appetite, impoverished blood, sallow complexion, pimples, skin disease, and often times serious illness.

Ordinary laxatives, purges and cathartics—salts, oils, calomel and the like—may relieve for a few hours, but real, lasting benefit can only come through use of medicine that tones up and strengthens the digestive as well as the eliminative organs.

Get a 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one tablet each night for a week. Relief will follow the very first dose, but a few days will elapse before you feel and realize the fullest benefit. When you get straightened out and feel just right again you need not take medicine every day—an occasional NR Tablet will then keep your system in good condition and you will always feel your best. Remember, keeping well is easier and cheaper than getting well.

Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) are sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

MY HEART and MY HUSBAND by ADELE GARRISON

"Mind!" I ejaculated. "Have you taken leave of your senses?"

"Sometimes, I wonder if I may not have," she returned a trifle mournfully, "but I am perfectly sane upon this topic. Don't think I can't see what mother's been up to before we came, and is still keeping up. She's a darling, but as cantankerous an old dear as you'll ever want to meet. And I want you to know that I appreciate the welcome you have given us. And—and—I wonder—if you would do a—rather—odd—thing for me?"

"Anything in the world," I said warmly, and saw to my surprised dismay that there were tears in her fine eyes.

I need not have feared for Harriet Braithwaite's control of herself. Even as I noticed the tears in her eyes she swallowed hard, passed her kerchief lightly over her eyes, and was once more the poised woman of the world I had known. Indeed, she was apparently calmer than I, for I was all agog with curiosity as to the nature of the "something odd" which she wished me to do for her.

"Do you ever see your little friend, Mrs. Bickett?" she asked next, and there was not the slightest trace in her voice of anything save the most casual inquiry about an acquaintance.

"I have only seen her once since she returned," I replied quietly, but my pulses had increased their beat.

"Does she live near here?" she asked next.

"No, over in Jersey. My cousin has never fully recovered from his injuries, and as his income is sufficient for them to live comfortably in the country, they have a delightful little place about sixty miles from the city, and are playing at farming in a desultory sort of way."

She pondered my information intently with downcast eyes and tightly interlocked fingers. When she looked up her face held an embarrassed flush upon it.

"Would it be possible for you to invite them out for a week-end after you come back and while we are still here? I would manage mother so that we could make room for them. I would share her room and give the one I am in to them. You see, if it could be managed, I should not like them to know we are here, nor do I wish—Edwin—to know they are coming until they get here."

I think my face was more flushed than hers by the time she had finished, for I had seen the reason for her request in an instant and realized the humiliation she must be suffering at thus betraying to me the fear that was consuming her.

News of the Theaters

ORPHEUM—Marie and Mary McFarland sang their way into the hearts of their audience at the Oakland Orpheum yesterday afternoon with smiling ease. Following a season of grand opera with the Metropolitan Company these two noted sopranos are making a brief tour of the Orpheum circuit and incidentally adding thousands of new friends and admirers the while. The second headliner on the new bill is Frank Wilcox and company in a lively and hilariously funny farce-comedy entitled "Ssh-h." Neal Abel, the man with the mobile face and the Mobile negro dialect stories is nothing less than a comedy riot and is good for sixty laughs a minute between his comedy lines and his india-rubber physiognomy

FULTON—The crowds which witnessed the production of the brilliant Somerset Maugham comedy, "Too Many Husbands," at the Fulton theater yesterday decided that the [illegible] and novelist is entitled to all of the credit given him for this one of his most sensational successes. The play has all the spice and sparkle, snap and go, as well as subtle humor and broader fun and comical situations for which Maugham is famous. The plot deals with the troubles of a bride whose husband is reported killed in the war but who returns to find his young helpmate wedded to another. When the two husbands each learn that the other is not enthusiastic about going on with the marital agreement entered into with the attractive but more or less spoiled and petulant wife, they have a merry time planning their release from the sweet bugaboo.

Next week's attraction is announced as Jack Lait's comedy-drama Help Wanted.

ALCAZAR—"Nothing But Lies" is the current offering at the Alcazar, and it is a corker. Lots of laughs, lots of action, lots of pep and a good story. Ralph Morgan, Ralph Kellard, Ethel Wilkes, Ethel Clayton and Ralph Lewis are the principals in the cast. Next week, "Nothing But the Truth."

LIBERTY—The Selwyns production of "Buddies" will come into the Liberty Playhouse for the week commencing this evening with matinees scheduled for Wednesday and Saturday. Denman Maley, Olive Reeves-Smith, Joseph Herbert Jr. and Ignacio Martinetti are the featured players in "Buddies," and excellent notices have followed their work in every city between New York and San Francisco. They will be surrounded by a splendid cast of players, including a number of prominent musical comedy players. The story of "Buddies," from the pen of George V. Hobart concerns the activities of American boys billeted in France and contains a pleasant romantic thread with a strain of pathos intermingled

COLUMBIA—Another fun festival was presented yesterday afternoon at the Columbia Theater under the title of "The Sweetie Shop" with Eddie Gilbert and Harry Harrigan in the two principal roles surrounded by an excellent company of players including Jess Mandelson and Gwendolyn Evans. "The Sweetie Shop" is an up-to-the-minute offering, brisk and business-like as to comedy and charming as to song and dance. Some of the outstanding hits on the musical program yesterday were "It's Only a Thing of the Past," by Gwendolyn Evans, "You Cannot Make Your Shimmie Shake on Tea," by Hazel Beer, "Don't Take Away Those Blues," by Genevieve Murphy, "Dixie Made Us Jazz-Band Mad," by Jess Mendelson, and "Why Don't You Get a Sweetie," by Babe La Rue.

PANTAGES—With every cranny and crevice packed with crowds, a new bill was ushered in at Pantages yesterday and everybody laughed, for more good cheer and sprightly music has not been uncorked here this season than by the artists who aid and abet the festival of good cheer. The Ward brothers, an English swell and an American dude, have a lot of fun with each other, the Englishman entertaining with an account of his [illegible] the American baseball game. Barney Williams and Company, offering the farcical sketch "Hunting," which has been seen here before, met with considerable favor. "The Little Cafe," full of girls, color and music, and a tiny wisp of a youngster, provides good amusement and music. Morgan Davis and Lyle McCoy dip into another angle of eccentricity. Their original nonsense bubbles with fun. Davis touched a new mainspring of laughter. Miss McCoy is pert.

AMERICAN—"Stop Thief" Broadway comedy, with a dash of mystery and the spice of novelty, proved the ideal film play, as presented yesterday at the American, with Tom Moore in the leading role. The famous Cohan and Harris success of the speaking stage demonstrated everything that makes for the success of a cinema offering. The comical story of a youth who moves heaven and earth to escape from a court summons, works out splendidly, with a few thrills, a mystery and a deal of romance. Tom Moore plays the lead. On the same bill is "A Light Woman." This film stars Helen Jerome Eddy.

T. & D.—"A Cumberland Romance" is human. That's the best line that can be written for the John Fox Jr. story which stars Mary Miles Minter at the T. & D. theater. The characters step out of life. There's a mountain feud and "moonshine flavor to "A Cumberland Romance" that gives it a distinct individuality among stories of this type. Lew Cody appears on the same program in "Occasionally Yours," another of those "types" of matinee idols of his. It is the amusing story of a woman who married one man to be near another.

KINEMA—"Humoresque" started its second successful week at the Kinema yesterday, and judging from the crowds bids fair to break the first week's record. "Humoresque" is a picture for all Oaklanders to see, it has no creed to offer except the creed of loyalty and faith. It has no sex problem, nor the eternal triangle. It is [illegible] wholesomely entertaining story of plain people, lifted to a radiant happiness through their own genuine beauty of heart. Mother-love is predominant throughout the story, a motherlove so appealing and compelling that it reaches out from the screen and envelopes the spectator. The picture is life.

FRANKLIN—"Little Miss Rebellion" at the Franklin shows dynamic Dorothy Gish in a new light. In the realm of a little Dukedom, Miss Gish is a granduchess with a propensity for doing typical Gish tricks that run contrary to stiff-backed palace rules. She breaks all conventions and court etiquette, plays baseball with a crowd of Yankees and scoots crapelike a vet, and keeps her little dukedom on edge with her capriccs. When she gets tired of being a duchess, she starts a little revolution of her to the New York eastside, where she winds up making flapjacks in a nashouse.

BROADWAY—"Sand," starring William S. Hart and the Mack Sennett comedy "The Old Law Secret," will be seen at the Broadway theater today for the last time. Von Stroheim's screen sensation "The Devil's Pass Key" is announced for tomorrow with "Fatty" Arbuckle providing the comedy in "The Garage." Thursday, D. W. Griffith's "The Greatest Question," will be shown for two days.

IDORA PARK—With the big amusement park in gala attire in exact duplication of the famous New Orleans Mardi Gras several thousand former service men again crowded into Idora Park last night during the big American Legion Mardi Gras given under the auspices of Argonne Post No. 225 of Oakland. Members of the American legion posts of all of the bay cities participated in the affair, which was held to raise funds for the erection in Oakland of a suitable clubhouse for ex-service men. As an important feature of the day's program, the national women's junior fancy diving championship of the A. A. U. was held under the direction of the park management and the P. A. A., thousands of swimming and diving fans gathering at the park pool to witness the event, in which some of the best women divers in the country participated.

ARCADIA—Miss Nelly Whitman with Mr. M. McBurin and Miss Mark with Mr. P. H. Hollis, all of Oakland, were the successful couples in the second preliminary contest in the waltzing tournament at the Arcadia Dancing Pavilion last Thursday evening. Eight couples will meet in the finals on October 21. The third trial contest will be held next Thursday evening. Eddie Horton at the piano, with his all-star soloists continues to make a hit with his Arcadia dance orchestra. The new canopy over the music stand has greatly improved the acoustics.

DEAR JOE:

I've got your shirts done, Joe, and I'm sending them off to you today. I hope you'll like them, Joe, though I know your adversion to pink and I must admit the material looks pinker in the shirts than it did in the piece. The color seems to be concentrated, if you know what I mean. I don't mean to say they're too pink for my taste. I merely mean to say they may be too pink for anybody that don't like pink. I had a real hard time with the collar bands. I originally intended to put on 15-inch collar bands because I know that's the size of your neck, but the shirts didn't seem to want to come out that way, so I finally had to compromise on 16-inch collar bands.

It's lucky they're an inch too large instead of an inch too small, ain't it, Joe? When a thing's too small that's all there is about it, but when it's too large at least you know it's large enough.

Mrs. Fink stepped in for a cup of tea this afternoon and she read me my fortune from the leaves in the bottom of my cup. She said I was going to take a long journey on water soon and to beware of a thin blonde. While of course, Joe, I don't take no stock in fortune telling and never did, believing the future is a unopened book with no tea leaves in it, still it was mighty odd about that long voyage on water, because I happened to take a warm bath after Mrs. Fink left and I actually dropped off to sleep in the tub. Can you imagine that, Joe? Of course it might of only been one of those coincidences, but still at the same time you haven't met any thin blondes, have you, Joe? Not that I'm superstitious or uncanny or anything like that, but you haven't, have you, Joe?

The baby has a new habit of laying there and keeping on opening and closing his little hands. I hope it's not a sign that he's going to be close-fisted like your rich Aunt Sophie. I'd much rather have him grow up without a cent but at the same time generous with it.

Your loving wife,

TESSIE.

Vice-President of Ry. Mail Clerks Ousted

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 4.—The board of directors of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks has made permanent the suspension of Grand Vice President J. W. Nelson, it was announced at the international headquarters today. Although a number of technical charges were sustained against Nelson for alleged violations of the Brotherhood constitution and laws, it was said the principal indictment was because of his actions in connection with the "vacation" or unauthorized strike that started last May on the Central of Georgia Railroad. The Board has placed Grand Vice President James E. Hogsed of Denver, Colo., in charge of district seven.

Can the Baby Roll With Safety on Your Rugs?

Youngsters will toddle and tumble and roll. It's a happy, human trait—but have you made provision for it in your home, so that the health of your little ones can be properly safeguarded?

A good precaution is to be sure that the washable rugs in the nursery, in the bedrooms and elsewhere in the home are always properly clean.

And it is no trouble to keep them that way if you will just send them to us once in a while for laundering. Instead of trying to struggle with them yourself—it is fatiguing work for even the most robust of women—simply make a roll of them and give them to our route representative when he calls for your family bundle.

Our laundering method is good for rugs. We use oceans of crystal-clear water on them; souse them in creamy suds; rinse them again and again, and then dry them in a sweet, warm breeze. You will be delighted with their restored newness.

Telephone and we will send our route representative

How Jim Tierney fought to save your water supply

If you have read that chapter in "The Winning of Barbara Worth" that tells how men fought for days to control the ever rising Colorado River and how they finally hurled in two great Mogul engines to close the gap through which the flood waters were pouring into the rich Imperial Valley—if you have ever seen the power of uncontrolled water—you can appreciate the strain of nerve and muscle that it takes to guard — during the heaviest rains of winter — the great storage lakes—from which your water supply comes.

For two days and two nights, without sleeping, Timothy Tierney, superintendent of Lake San Leandro (Chabot) stood watching the outlet gates, ready to throw them wide open should the rapidly rising water in the lake reach the danger point.

It is because of the faithful service of men like Superintendent Tierney, who has held his post at Lake San Leandro for 33 years, that you are assured a constant supply of good pure water.

A Few Words to Husbands About Washday Help

New ideals have come to husbands on the question of what should be expected of a helpmate. No husband now asks his wife anything that he would not do himself.

But many husbands forget about washday, with its heavy labor. And because they just haven't thought about it, still permit their wives to struggle on with this trying task.

It need not be so in the future. The Family Laundry Service of the modern laundries of the East Bay Cities offers a happy way out. This is a modern service—the cost is no more than washday at home, and usually it is less.

The modern laundries of the East Bay Cities wash everything in water delightfully soft and in fleecy suds of flaked soap. Nowhere in their process is there any of the old-fashioned rubbing or scrubbing. Washing in their modern way every garment is sweet and fresh—and a joy to wear.

Then the modern laundries of the East Bay Cities iron the flat pieces—the bed linens, the tablecloths, the napkins, and so on, in their improved manner. Other things, like skirts, the children's clothes, and shirtwaists, they starch and make ready for the housewife to iron. Many of the under-garments, because of the airy way they are dried, need no ironing.

In substance, the modern laundries of the East Bay Cities do all the back-breaking work of washday, leaving to housewives only the lighter ironing.

Any one of the modern laundries of the East Bay Cities will be glad to tell you more about this family laundry service.

Telephone any one of them at any time. Or mail your address and a route representative will call for your family bundle.

RECKLESS STATEMENTS.

Sometimes brash young publicity agents may wonder why their stuff does not appear in the newspapers to which it is sent. And newspaper editors are occasionally puzzled, when they take the time, to know how some publicity agents manage to become attached to movements which might deserve better luck.

As case in point is a "press bulletin" sent throughout the country by the Unitarian Campaign, with headquarters in Unity House, 7 Park Square, Boston. This bulletin is dated deceitfully "Berkeley, Cal.," and the first paragraph reads:

"In a little frame building in this university town, remote, in miles, from metropolitan centers of culture, is housed what California regards as one of her richest treasures—the world's finest collection of Unitariana."

Why should so many absurd and offensive statements be uttered in order to convey the message intended? And how do the directors of the Unitarian propaganda expect to win respectful attention when they commit so many asininities in one sentence?

That President Emeritus Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California has long been accustomed to express his derision by employing the phrase, "the township of Berkeley," provides no excuse for any one in the most provincial city in America, Boston, to refer to Berkeley as a town in publicity matter intended for nation-wide distribution. Berkeley has been an incorporated city these many decades. According to the census of 1920 it boasts today of a population of over 56,000, and that redoubtable defender of the honor and prestige of the university city, Mr. Wells Drury, who once in a misguided moment made the futile attempt to credit Dr. Wheeler with originating jazz, claims that this figure is at least 10,000, short. Certainly Berkeley is housing over 65,000 souls at present and the civic pride of the population is equal to that of the average city of three times the number.

But calling Berkeley a "town" is a mild-mannered offense in comparison with the other error of the Boston propaganda agent. Berkeley is not remote in miles from metropolitan centers of culture. Berkeley is in itself a metropolitan center of culture and if this were not true she is a unit in a metropolitan district on the Pacific Coast which, for its position on the meeting line of a half dozen civilizations, for its variety and versatility, for its freedom of thought and liberality of views, is incomparable in the world today. We fear that Boston doesn't really know what constitutes a metropolitan center. Why, Witter Bynner even was tolerated here!

Hindu revolutionaries and German savants who were plotting against the country found haven at the University; and then to show its good sense and that a limit to forbearance really existed, Mr. Raymond Robins was forbidden to deliver a plea for the Russian Bolshevists on the university campus. Culture of every degree and character, and a thousand emotions and exercises born in the name of culture, are to be found here.

Remote in miles from centers of culture! And this from provincial Boston. Save the day when we will be nearer to the Boston idea!

OFFICIALLY ENDORSED.

On August 20th THE TRIBUNE urged as proper action for the Eastbay cities to meet the needs of the water situation the formation of a public utility district. Mayors of the cities are now engaged in a plan which would seek to form such a district, include all the closely knit municipalities of the Eastbay district.

At a meeting held in Oakland last week the mayors outlined plans for the formation of a public utility district. They will have reported to them certain suggestions for amendments to the public utility act, or for a new act itself, which would substitute for salaried directors a board which would serve without compensation. They are also considering limiting the district to the acquisition of a water supply.

The suggestion to take away the salaries from utility district directors is a wise one in that it would assure better men for the places and dispose of the objection of cost of administration. The fact that the mayors are moving together toward the formation of a district to handle the water problem of the whole community demonstrates general recognition of the need of a concerted action and of a belief that the utility district is the best answer to a pressing question. It is the only way in which Richmond may be included and is one which involves no expensive preliminary elections.

The public utility district is the most practicable means by which the entire Eastbay may assure for the future an adequate water supply. Action of the mayors is proof that they recognize this fact.

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY.

It is often said that talking can do no harm and that the best plan is to let people talk to their hearts' content. President Wilson pointedly said, upon the occasion of his speech in the Oakland auditorium last year, that when you encounter some fool who insists upon being heard the best thing to do is to "hire him a hall."

But Senator Reed Smoot of Utah addressed the Senate last February on the expensiveness of talking to the American people. His speech was impressive to the members on the Democratic side of the chamber as well as to the party colleagues of the Utah senator. There were extracts from the official record in the speech and some of these take on a peculiar interest in connection with the claims of the managers of the Democratic national campaign that they are without funds adequately to represent their "cause." These acknowledged facts of the record show that the Democrats have had a very considerable sum at their disposal to wage a political campaign during the last four years and that they have used it liberally. The money came from the taxpayers, not from the ranks of the Democratic party, and some of it was used without sanction of the law.

Senator Smoot was discussing the cost and consumption of print paper. He showed that between June 30, 1916, and September 15, 1919, there was distributed 30,144,362 copies of speeches at the direction of the White House or the heads of the several executive departments of the government. Of President Wilson's speeches alone 1,123,862 copies were distributed. The total weight of the copies of the President's speeches was 78,657 pounds, avoirdupois, and the cost of printing alone was $13,423.41. The cost of printing all the speeches circulated—the President's addresses and speeches by cabinet officers or executive assistants—was $100,000.5. The entire bulk weighed 894,101 pounds and the speeches and envelopes in which they were mailed together weighed 1,451,000 pounds. These were weighty discourses, it may be said.

There were other costs beside printing, such as envelopes, postal service, addressing, etc., and the total bill was $442,798.73. But the speech-making and distributing at public expense did not stop in September, 1919. It continued into 1920 and was most active during the two months just preceding the San Francisco national Democratic convention. It is going on to some extent now, though with a little more attention to the rules of official decency. When Congress convenes again Senator Smoot, who has an aptitude for figures, probably will revise his tables and show how much of the public moneys the Democratic administration used up to November 2, 1920.

The sum will be scandalously large, not far short of one million dollars. The practice of permitting the executive departments to print important public documents for popular distribution has been grossly abused and politicians thought to prosper by it. The United States Railroad Administration alone printed and distributed at government expense 3,055,500 copies of speeches by Mr. W. G. McAdoo and his subordinates.

With this million dollar expenditure in its behalf—and this is only one of many items—the Democratic administration seems to have treated itself quite handsomely. To complain of lack of funds when it has been diverting public funds to political purposes, specifically to campaign purposes, is flagrant dishonesty.

Livy had a saying that "what is honorable is also safest." Governor Cox should have taken that truism as his guide in political campaigning. When he made the charge that the Republican campaign committee was raising a fund of $15,000,000 or $30,000,000 and was plotting to "buy the Presidency," he was doing the dishonorable thing, because his charges were palpably and consciously false. And being dishonorable they were also unsafe, as Governor Cox has found out. They have not been supported by the smallest particle of evidence, nor even by a reasonable presumption. And when a candidate for the Presidency stands convicted of untruthfulness his chances of election are inevitably lessened.

Democratic campaign managers complain of the scantiness of the campaign chest. But they have the fine consolation, assuming that their pretention to poverty is well founded, that they are not wasting much money on a lost cause.

Summer loiters lazily in the lap of autumn and bids waiting winter do his worst to banish the memory of a matchless harvest moon.

NOTES and COMMENT

SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS

Writing to a San Francisco paper one who claims to know tells that the poll tax was abolished because it was found to be a piece of rotten political graft. Outside of the cities collection was left, he says, to small office holders who took money from some persons, but crossed off the names of others in exchange for votes. This man who writes claims that he didn't pay his poll tax for eight years, because it was always "fixed" for him. He also says that after the collector's 50 per cent commission and other minor deductions were made only about 25 cents from every dollar collected reached the state treasury. Is it a case of rogues falling out that brings this late confession or is it a case of conscience?—Stockton Record.

Man-Eating Sharks

As the 'open season' for sharks approaches, South American liners arriving in New York report the sighting of these sea monsters a fact which lends interest to the following communication to the National Geographic Society by Dr. Hugh M. Smith, a world-famous authority on fish.

"When giant fishes are mentioned most people will at once think of the shark, among which, indeed, are found the largest fish now existing," says Dr. Smith. "Of the many species of sharks noteworthy on account of their size there are about half a dozen which are pre-eminent. These differ much in their disposition, some being as harmless as doves and others the incarnation of ferocity.

"The sleeper shark (Somniosus microcephalus) whose scientific name fits it so admirably, appears to have developed its body at the expense of its brain for it is a sluggish, stupid glutton about six times as long as an average man. At home in the Arctic regions, it sometimes makes visits as far south as Cape Cod, the British Isles and Oregon. It is most often observed lying quietly in the surface, apparently dozing and easily approached, but at times, when hungry, it rouses itself and fiercely attacks whales, biting huge pieces out of their sides and tails, and when feeding on the carcass of a whale which has been killed by hunters it is so voracious that it permits spears and knives to be thrust into it without seeming to take any notice.

"One of the most prodigious and perhaps the most formidable of sharks is the 'man-eater' (Carcharodon carcharias). It roams through all temperate and tropical seas and everywhere is an object of dread. Its maximum length is 40 feet and its teeth are 3 inches long. While there are few authentic instances of sharks attacking human beings (prior to the recent tragedies), there have undoubtedly been many cases where sharks simply swallowed people who had fallen overboard, just as they would swallow any other food. How easy it would be for a man-eater to devour a person whole may be judged from the finding of an entire 100-pound seal in the stomach of a 30-foot shark on the California coast. A certain man-eater 36½ feet long had jaws 20 inches wide, inside measure, and teeth 2½ inches long. This may have been the 'great fish' of the Scripture narrative, and it is possible that at that time much larger man-eaters existed than are now known, as shark teeth with cutting edges 5 inches long have been found on the sea bottom, and these are believed by naturalists to have belonged to sharks not long dead. The phosphate beds of South Carolina yield very large fossil teeth of a shark which was related to the man-eater of the present day, judging from the comparative size of the teeth. Professor Goode thought that sharks 70 or 80 feet long must have been common.

"Many years ago a Norwegian bishop, in a learned paper, brought to the attention of the scientific and theological worlds a shark which he attempted to prove must have been the 'great fish' that swallowed Jonah. This was the basking shark (Cetorhinus maximus), known also as the elephant or bone shark, which is an inhabitant of the polar seas, but occasionally strays as far south as Virginia and California, and in former years was not rare on the United States and British coasts. The species has the habit at times of basking in schools at the surface and feeding in the sun, with its back partly out of water. It reaches a maximum length of 50 feet and is exceeded in size by only three or four animals extant. Provided with small teeth, it feeds on fishes and floating crustaceans, and is not of a ferocious disposition. It is dangerous only by virtue of its great bulk and when attacked its powerful tail easily demolishes boats. In former years the basking shark was hunted for its oil on the coast of Norway and Ireland, it was also harpooned on the shore of Massachusetts in the early part of the last century, and as many as twelve barrels of oil were sometimes obtained from the liver of one shark. There are many records of basking sharks 25 to 38 feet long from the coast of New York, Massachusetts and Maine, but the species has not been common in our waters in recent years."

Benzyl Benzoate—What This "New Remedy" Is and Does

By Dr. LEONARD K. HIRSHBERG, A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University.)

Numerous inquiries come to me for more knowledge about benzyl benzoate.

Benzyl benzoate is not a "patent," "secret," "proprietary" or "monopolized drug." Dr. David I. Macht, a research worker in the department of pharmacology at Johns Hopkins University, as the result of a four-year intensive investigation of opium, morphine, heroin and their vegetable brothers, published his discoveries free of charge and broadcast.

Any qualified chemist can make benzyl benzoate. No one can have a monopoly of it any more than he can of yeast, acetanild, epsom salts or castile soap. Don't confuse such drug names with "patent" or advertised articles.

Benzyl Benzoate is essentially a non-poisonous, non-narcotic, scientific substitute for opium, heroin and morphine. It can be used for asthma, coughs, spasmodic pains, diarrhoea, colic, dysentery, headache and neuralgias.

If you will pardon a few technical paragraphs, they will give you a clew to the difference between an honest, unselfish piece of scientific research and "a secret prescription" or formula, which lots of foolish people believe they have as "a sure cure for something or other."

Dr. Macht, like other pharmacologists, was aware that opium has its pain-quieting properties in a complex compound called "pyridine-phenanthrene," represented by morphine, and "benzylisoquinoline" represented by papaverine. The former increases the tone of the smooth muscles of the stomach, arteries and intestines. The latter is a sedative and lowers their tone. Both relieve pain and induce comfort and sleep.

Dr. Macht began a four years' investigation of papaverine and opium to find out exactly what combination of elements was in it which made opium a narcotic. He discovered at last that a simple benzyl component in it produced the pain-healing, analgesic and anti-neuralgic action.

Several of these benzyl derivatives, such as benzoic acid, benzyl alcohol, benzyl acetate and benzyl benzoate were at once tested, studied and tried to see whether they relieved pain. Benzyl benzoate was found to be by far superior to the others, because it does not produce any disturbance or other by-and-after effects on the stomach or heart.

Benzyl Benzoate is non-narcotic and practically non-toxic. It not only produces the same pain-relieving and anti-spasmodic action of opium, but it is free from any as yet recognized possibility of leading to the formation of a "habit"—of itself an estimable advantage over all opium preparations, including the least objectionable of them all—papaverine.

In a series of reports Dr. Macht had the cordial cooperation of a number of colleagues, all of whom coincide in the opinion that the average case of spasmodic asthma quickly yields to the benzyl benzoate treatment. But these clinicians also point out that because the action of benzyl benzoate is merely as a bronchodilator and a sedative to the bronchial muscle, only the spasmodic type of asthma is amenable to this treatment.

ALL BUILDINGS HELD UP ON SAME DAY BY DEALERS

Because every material dealer in Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley suddenly refused to deliver or sell plastering supplies, holding up thousands of dollars' worth of building construction in the Eastbay regions, and bringing a storm of protest from big and little industries and builders alike, District Attorney Ezra Decoto today is holding his threat of a grand jury probe over the heads of an alleged combine to force a dissolution

"While the material dealers deny that there was any agreement to violate the Cartwright anti-trust law through a conspiracy to stop all work on buildings, it seems very strange that they all stopped selling supplies on the same day last week," said District Attorney Decoto. "I told the dealers that there must be no discrimination or refusal to sell plastering material to anyone as it violates the Cartwright anti-trust law and must be punished in the criminal courts.

REFUSES TO SELL PLASTERING SUPPLIES

"As if the charges of collusion between the Contracting Plasterers' Association and the material dealers were based on fact, the dealers suddenly refused to sell any more plastering supplies last week Scores of private owners of big buildings under construction immediately investigated and found that there was a large amount of material on hand Complaints were made to this office not only by these owners, but by a delegation from the Building Trades Council Operatives from my office had looked into the matter and found that all construction work had been forced to cease

"In a consultation with the dealers and the members of the Plasterers' Contracting Association, the accused persons denied all knowledge of any combine, trust or conspiracy

"The future action of this office depends entirely upon whether the material dealers abate the condition I still do not think that a grand jury probe will be necessary"

The District Attorney said that the tie-up of construction covered the entire Eastbay region, throwing hundreds of men out of work and paralyzing building construction.

BUSINESS AGENTS WILLING TO APPEAR

Answering the published statement of the central council of the Builders' Exchange, Sam J. Donohue, business agent of the Alameda Building Trades Council, and M. J McDonough, business agent of the Plasterers' and Cement Finishers' Union, No 112, in Alameda county, today entered new allegations in the controversy.

Their principal statements are directed at the Central Council's charges against dealings of the workers under the wage agreements, although the union men assert that practices of cutting off supplies from contractors outside the Central Council and in sympathy with the union is continuing and that one was denied supplies no later than today.

Both Donohue and McDonough declare they will be willing to appear before a grand jury in any investigation aimed to discover if an association of contractors and dealers has violated the Cartwright anti-trust law

In the central council statement, published Sunday, it was alleged that the business agent of the plasterers had induced workers to leave the city for wages of $12 and $13 a day because the Oakland wage was $10, and that wages here were, thereafter raised by verbal agreement over the signed scale of $12

DENIES INDUCING PLASTERERS TO DEPART

McDonough categorically denied today that he had induced or threatened to induce Oakland plasterers to go elsewhere, although saying some had gone.

The $12 increase was the increase of July 26 which, a week ago last Saturday, was abrogated by the contractors for a return to the $10 wage, established by signed agreement January 5, 1920, and to run until March 4, 1921.

It is the charge of the business agents that the Central Council, which the contractors' statement says refused to approve the $12 wage, thereby causing the drop to $10, is but two weeks old, whereas the $12 agreement had existed nearly ten weeks.

Donohue and McDonough further assert that the contractors are guilty of breaking the agreement of January 5, 1920, by a "lockout," in that on July 26 they notified the workers they would no longer be employed at $12 as then agreed

According to Donohue, on last Thursday he proposed to the Central Council that the plasterers should be put back to work at the $12 rate and the reduction of wages then arbitrated.

McDonough charges that by private agreement, boss contractors within the last three weeks increased plastering rates in the face of the reduction of wages.

Alameda's Crime Bureau Now One of Nation's Best

Credit Due Wahmath For Perfection Of System

CHIEF OF POLICE WILLIAM H. WAHMUTH, whose system of criminal identification has put Alameda on the police map.

ALAMEDA, Oct. 4.—From an insignificent start of a small album of the famous old family style, Alameda has developed a scientific bureau of criminal identification, which, if it progresses at its present rate, will soon be second to none in the country. The entire development is due to the efforts of William H. Wahmuth, who has just been appointed chief of the Alameda police department to succeed Walter O Jacoby.

Wahmuth came into the department more than nineteen years ago when Joseph Conrad was chief. At that time scientific identification of criminals was practically in its infancy and the fingerprint system was still a theory. Wahmuth, however, undertook a study of these new-fangled ideas. At that time about the only system employed was the occasional filing of a sun printed photograph when, such could be obtained. Otherwise the descriptions consisted simply of the color of the hair, eyes height and any distinguishing marks which the suspect might possess.

He has developed a special card system embracing on the one card the picture, finger-prints, records and much other important data. An enlarging camera constructed by himself is one of his pet instruments. He has also constructed a system of light screens which will allow the most refractory prisoner being taken. With full control of the department Wahmuth announces that there will be a number of important improvements made which will greatly increase its efficiency

The Alameda bureau has proved its value time after time. One of the most important catches was that of W. B Stone, one of the cleverest forgers in the country Until the Alameda identification records were produced the police had been unable to capture him. He was taken in this city by Wahmuth and Lieutenant Daly Another man whose arrest and sentence to San Quentin was due to the Alameda bureau was P H Farley who passed out large numbers of Sunset Lumber company checks, collecting large sums.

Wahmuth was at Neptune Beach at one time when the suspicious action of a man giving the name of Wade attracted his attention. On suspicion Wahmuth arrested him. There was no definite charge, but investigation of the files revealed a criminal record and the fact that he was wanted elsewhere

LITTLE CRIME

"It is a queer thing but when we flash the finger-prints on these fellows they usually come clean," states Wahmuth "There is no beating them Sometimes we have but a thread of evidence, such as a smeared finger-print, to work on but usually we get results I keep a complete file of the San Quentin, Folsom and Leavenworth prints, so that this gives me a record of practically every important criminal in the country I am also able to exchange with other departments. This can stand considerable improvement, however as our present system of communication is cumbersome. But it is being worked on and shortly will be developed efficiently. Our present handicap is a lack of funds. Eventually we hope to see this adjusted"

According to Wahmuth, Alameda is ordinarily free from important crimes, the principal offenses being burglary and forgery. Both cases the bureau is fully capable of handling, unless the criminal is a new hand in the game

MAYORS ACTIVE IN FERRY PLAN, TO ASK SURVEY

An independent survey of harbor improvements that may include the plan of Admiral Joseph T. Jayne for a causeway to Goat Island and a union terminal there, will result from a meeting of the harbor committee of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce today

In opening the meeting H C Capwell, chairman, signified the intention of arranging for this survey by a board of engineering experts and urged the need of definite information as to the technical and financial problems to be met under the Jayne plan.

MEETING TOMORROW

Following the meeting last week with Admiral Jayne the Chamber of Commerce decided to refer the matter to its harbor committee and set the time for that consideration for today. The committee of mayors, of which Mayor John L Davie is chairman, will meet tomorrow in the offices of Mayor James Rolph of San Francisco.

Plans to be considered at the meeting of mayors and also brought up at today's meeting of the harbor committee ask the preservation of the present Alameda mole of the Southern Pacific railroad Mayor Frank Otis and City Manager C E Hewes, who have given the question particular study in the light of its effect on Alameda, say that a tunnel affect on Alameda, say that a tunnel under the estuary and an elevated track across the Oakland municipal harbor would be needed to give express service to Alameda

TO FIGHT S. P. EXTENSION

Any plan to extend the Southern Pacific mole, instead of the Key Route mole, will be fought vigorously both by the mayors and the Chamber of Commerce, as it would "bottle up" the Oakland waterfront.

At the mayors' meeting Mayor Louis Bartlett of Berkeley will advocate a union station for Goat Island and the elimination of duplicated ferry train service in Berkeley. Rapid transit service between the Eastbay cities, themselves, is to be urged by Mayor John L. Davie and others

LUNCHEON SHOWS INTEREST.

Indicative of the interest in the plan, today's luncheon was largely attended more than a score of the committeemen and other leaders in the civic life of Oakland taking part in the discussion

Joseph E Caine, the chamber's official representative as managing director at Admiral Jayne's conference, reported the details of the plan and the counter projects advanced.

It was the consensus of opinion of the Southern Pacific mole would necessitate the dredging of a channel to the north of Goat Island, where the shoals are exposed at low water. Constant dredging, it was declared, would be required to keep the channel open and the long trip around the island would work against the Oakland western waterfront

It was also brought to the attention of the committee that any plan to make a freight terminal of Goat Island would operate against Oakland and the other cities of the mainland in that the great asset of this section for manufacturing purposes would be greatly lessened.

It was the consensus of opinion that the Jayne plan should be thoroughly investigated by the committee and a report made at a meeting to be held at the call of the chairman, H. C Capwell.

MANY 'SHUT-INS' DESIRE TO VOTE

The published announcement that bed-ridden or crippled persons, one 97 and the other 96, were so anxious to vote at the November elections that they had asked to have a special registrar visit them at their homes to take their registration caused a flood of similar applications, according to County Clerk George E Gross.

More than fifty aged persons who are unable to leave either their beds or their homes were registered in this manner, Gross said. All of them will have to be carried to the polls on stretchers, in automobiles or otherwise.

"No sooner had the announcement been printed," said Gross today, "than the telephone began carrying such messages as, 'I am 86 years of age and can't come to your office,' or 'I am 74 and bedridden, can't you send a man to register me?' If as much interest is shown in the election as these persons showed there will be the biggest vote in the history of Alameda county"

Among those registered at home was Mrs. Blake-Alverson, noted aged singer

Mrs. Hearst's Gift of Indian Blankets Received at U. C.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Oct. 4.—Rare and valuable Indian blankets, accrued to the collection of the California Museum of Anthropology at the Affiliated Colleges from the estate of the late Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst, were received at the institution today.

According to experts who have examined the relics, they are of exceedingly fine pattern and design, and are typical of the most advanced types of Navajo and Pueblo Indians. The principal color scheme in the group is red, a color particularly favored by Indians.

The latter fact, it is explained, was an effect produced by the red-men by the use of balletta or red flannel cloth which they were able to procure from occasional traders. This, when purchased, would be unraveled, and later worked into the native blankets

Paints for Every Purpose

Every one in the world likes to paint. And in most homes there's generally a need of paint. Take some old table, for example, and give it a new coat of paint. Find a tarnished old mirror, shine it up or perhaps gild it. Put the table in your hall, with a strip of dull brocaded silk down the center and a vase on it. Hang the mirror just above so that the shining surface of the table is reflected. Then notice how many people admire.

There are dozens of things you can do with a can of paint and a little ingenuity. We will gladly give you a book of directions for painting and supply you with any kind of Sherwin-Williams paint you need.

MRS. H. A. CROSS HAS FULLY RECOVERED

"Honestly, I don't think I could have kept going much longer if it hadn't been for Tanlac," said Mrs. H. A. Cross, of 1731 West 1st St., Los Angeles, recently

"A little over a year ago I broke down completely and was confined to my bed for quite a while. When I finally got up from that spell my stomach was all out of order and my appetite was gone. Nothing looked good or tasted right to me and the little I forced myself to eat caused sour gas to form which kept me feeling miserable all the time.

"I was so nervous that at times the least noise or excitement would almost set me wild, my sleep was always restless and disturbed and I was so weak I could hardly keep up to attend to my housework. Nothing seemed to do me any good, and I worried a great deal and became very despondent over my condition.

"But Tanlac acted altogether different from any medicine I ever took, for it helped me right from the start and now all my troubles are gone. Why, my appetite is so good now I feel hungry all the time, and no matter what I eat I never suffer from gas or any other sign of indigestion.

"I am no longer nervous, sleep like a healthy child all night long and wake up feeling refreshed. I have gained several pounds in weight and feel so much stronger and better I can do all my housework with ease. It is wonderful the relief Tanlac has brought me, and I don't hesitate to give it my strongest endorsement."

Tanlac is sold in San Francisco and Oakland by the Owl Drug Company stores and Eberly's Quality Pharmacy, Alameda.—Advertisement.

MRS. WARBURTON SAYS WARDELL'S UNFAIR TO HER

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—Forged signatures to orders granting the right to withdraw liquors from bonded warehouses, a vast traffic in intoxicants that have been illegally withdrawn, and an investigation of certain initialed blanks issued from the office of the director of prohibition at various times, may be revealed by Mrs. Glad Kimball Warburton, new occupant of that office, according to intimations she made today.

That Collector of Internal Revenue Justus Wardell has no legal authority to inspect the permits issued by her office or to hold them up, is an added declaration of Mrs. Warburton, who resents the activities of Wardell as giving rise to an undercurrent of suspicion toward her office.

"I have no fear of any investigation which Wardell is now conducting," said Mrs. Warburton, "and I am glad to co-operate with him.

EXPECTED KENNEY NAMED.

"In this connection I feel that the public should know the following facts. When Loren Handley was killed I at once wired to Washington and asked for instructions. It was expected, I learned, that Edward Kenney would be appointed acting director. I know Kenney expected it, and I know that others expected it. Without solicitation on my part I received telegraphic orders to take charge. I need add nothing more to explain the political motives which I am constrained to say are actuating an unjust attitude toward me in connection with the attempt to bribe William Jordan, assistant prohibition supervisor. I was never asked to co-operate in the Daniels-Callaghan affair either by Mr. Wardell or Mr. Considine or anyone else, until after the arrest. Then, and only then, was my co-operation solicited. This was unfair to me."

Charles Daniels and Charles F. Callaghan are under arrest charged with attempting to bribe W. A. Jordon, in connection with the removal of an amount of liquor from a warehouse.

PERMITS RUBBER STAMP.

"Every permit must be signed by the prohibition director," continued Mrs. Warburton. "Under Mr Silva a rubber stamp was used, but permission was obtained from Washington whereby the initials of Edward A. Kenney, chief deputy, could be attached by Kenney. However, every clerk in the office who handled permits was rubber-stamping Silva's name and was initialing the 'E. A. K.' under it.

"While Mr. Silva was prohibition director I was doing secretarial work and not handling permits. When he was succeeded on July 3 by Loren A. Handley, Mr. Handley wrote to Washington and procured orders that all the signatures should be initialed by me, and accordingly they all bore 'G. K. W.,' and I saw to it that no one but myself put them on a permit. Mr Handley personally signed the permit for withdrawal of everything over five barrels.

CUT OUT FAC-SIMILE.

"When Handley was killed, and I was appointed to take charge on September 20, I decided that no facsimile of my signature could be used in my office, and I have signed every permit myself.

"Under the rubber stamp system it is easy to see the possibility of irregularities in the issuance of permits. I am not at this time insinuating that I know of any such irregularities. I will merely say that I heard whispers.

"Of course anyone can get hold of any number of blanks of form 1410. That being the case, there is the possibility of forgery of the signature of the prohibition director to an application conveniently made out to suit the person's design. Presented to the internal revenue collector he would have no other recourse than to accept the payment of the tax and the liquor could be withdrawn. This then constitutes a method whereby great quantities might be procured without the faintest knowledge of the prohibition director."

COOLIDGE GREETS BANKERS.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 4.—Governor Coolidge today opened the ninth annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America with a brief speech to delegates from all over the country, welcoming them to Massachusetts.

If you have a tear to shed, a laugh to share or a view to air, write to Geraldine. She and her shoulder BELONG TO YOU. Letters will be answered through this column. If you desire a private answer, enclose a stamped and addressed envelope.

I believe in FLATTERY. I believe in flattering other folks and I most especially believe in being flattered myself. I think it's one of the finest tonics you can apply to the human psychology and it ought to be regarded as a civic duty instead of being classed with chickenstealing, craps and other misdemeanors.

It isn't flattery that does the harm—it's the use people put flattery to. Just telling a person that he's a million times finer proposition than you privately think he is never hurt anyone. He'll believe you every time, and unconsciously he'll shape up toward the opinion you've expressed. You won't have lied either. We're all a lot better folks than the police records show. Within each one of us lie miracles and adventures, magic and the seeds of wonder. If we had enough faith in ourselves we'd all be gods by tomorrow morning. Kind flattery, no matter how exaggerated, puts that faith within us. You can't overdo it, either, for the most gilded statement will fall far short of the thing we might be if we only believed we could.

Not All Flattery

But of course if you're only making these soothing remarks in order to make a touch on rent day—why, that's quite another matter. Though I'll frankly admit, even when I know I'm going to pay for 'em, compliments sound pleasant to my ear. They always raise my opinon of the other fellow's intelligence somehow.

How's this, for instance:

My Dear Geraldine:

May I do as Marion H. of San Francisco did, and weep on your shoulder? A short time ago I met a perfectly lovely sailor and when he left Oakland to go back to his ship he made an appointment with me which he failed to keep. I have waited and waited and he has not come. He is so unlucky that I am afraid he may be ill or hurt but I hesitate to make inquiries because I dread making myself ridiculous. He is such a boy and he is so awfully lonesome that I feel I should do something, but as we have never corresponded, I can't write to him. Besides, he promised to write to me. I am terribly worried, though, for I am certain that he would never have deliberately deceived me. Please tell me what to do, Geraldine. He is so little and cute and so far from home that I feel more or less responsible. Will you truly answer a letter if a stamped envelope is enclosed?

BLANCHE HARVEY

The Old, Old Heartache

They are cunning, Blanche. I've noticed that myself. As a matter of fact, little pal, most of 'em are perfect seagulls when it comes to skimming over the high spots and taking care of themselves in uncertain weather. I can't tell about your lad, but I am afraid you're up against the old, old heartache, and I'm sorry. I think it would be perfectly proper for you to write to him, and I should advise doing so and frankly stating your worries. Yes, indeed, I will gaildy answer your letter. The contents will be absolutely confidential and I will truly give you my deepest sympathy and friendly help.

Dear Geraldine:

What shall I give my parents for their ruby wedding, or fortieth anniversary? I cannot afford rubies, so what would you suggest?

AN ARDENT READER

How About a Supper?

How about a little ruby supper for them and their best cronies, my friend? Use red as the keynote for the table and house decorations, the "eats" and the presents. Little red chrysanthemums with red oak leaves would be lovely in the vases. For the table centerpiece arrange a few red apples, with red grapes and sprays of red leaves and berries. For the supper use tomato soup, beet salad, cold corned beef and ham for meats or salmon cakes, with boiled rice covered with a criss-cross of pimento strips, and red jello in fancy molds for dessert. Use a red fruit drink iced. Red candles and red shades. The cake decorated with tiny red candles.

For the giftsy, how about a pair of red slippers for mother, or a red-knitted jacket or scarf? Father might have a red house jacket, or a gay little pillow to tuck in when his neck aches. For a more elaborate gift you could choose a red floor lamp, or a red rug for some cozy corner.

And particularly I'd suggest giving them plenty of that oldest and rarest gift of all that is so much "more priceless than rubies"—love. Will you add some of Geraldine's, please, when you wish them happy days?

SUPREME COURT RECONVENES; IS MET BY WILSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—For the first time since 1918, President Wilson received today the justices of the U. S. Supreme court, who called to pay their respects. The court convened at noon after its summer recess and immediately adjourned until tomorrow, so the justices might visit the White House. The annual visit to the President was omitted last year because of Mr. Wilson's illness.

The docket is crowded with important cases. Besides anti-trust suits, matters pending included further attacks on the prohibition amendment, suits to test the constitutionality of the anti-profiteering section of the food control act and of the Federal farm loan act and appeals in the Newberry election case.

With the federal suffrage amendment ratified and proclaimed, court officials expected tests of its constitutionality would reach the court this session.

ANTI-TRUST SUITS

Anti-trust suits against the Eastman Kodak company, the Associated Billposters and Distributors of the United States and Canada, American Can Co., Southern Pacific Co., and the Keystone Watch Case Co., will be postponed temporarily by agreement of counsel.

Other cases of consequence before the court are those involving the constitutionality of provisions in the 1919 war revenue act, levying on excise tax on profits derived from child labor, the boundary dispute between Oklahoma and Texas, and the case of the United Shoe Machinery Co., originally instituted by the government in St. Louis under the Clayton act.

CONFERENCE OF JUDGES

A conference of the justices of the Supreme court will be held this week to take action on the petition of Elihu Root and William Guthrie for a rehearing on all of the decisions affecting the prohibition act and the Volstead act.

The decision of the court on this petition may bring an end to the controversy over the legality of prohibition.

Petition for rehearing was filed on grounds that the decisions of the court were not in sufficient detail.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, appeared at the court today prepared to oppose reopening of the cases.

Hills Club Favors Purchase of Parks

Among the many organizations which favor the acquisition of the proposed chain-of-parks by the city of Oakland is the Contra Costa Hills Club. Its president, Harold French, in presenting the point of view held by his hill climbing clan, declares:

"We hikers represent thousands of voters in this community, and we respectfully urge the city council to give the people of Oakland the right to decide the question of acquiring this beautiful series of natural public parklands.

"Most of us have made our homes in this city because we have been free to enjoy the delights of roaming up the glens and panoramic ridges at our back door. Many thousands more with similar tastes will come to Oakland every year if its recreational attractions are made better known."

'PEEPING TOM' TROUNCED, SHOT AT BY CITIZEN

Frightened women in the neighborhood of 3324 Opal street, and a desperate fist fight marked the activities in that locality of a "peeping Tom," whose arrest is sought today by the police.

For several nights during the last week women have been reporting that a man has been prowling about the neighborhood in the early evening, peeping into windows. Last night he made the mistake of peeping into the windows of Charles L. Newes' home. Newes, seeing the man's face framed in the window, rushed out of the house in time to grapple with him. A fight ensued. "Peeping Tom" finally broke away and ran. Newes fired two shots after him. Neither is believed to have taken effect.

News of the Churches

Many Oakland churches are enthusiastically taking up novel ideas for the advancement of their church program and the naming of a goal this fall. An entirely new idea was advanced by Rev. H. A. Van Winkle at the First Christian church yesterday morning in his sermon, and as a result a unique club has been formed. Dr. Van Winkle spoke of the conservation of time and cited Edison and Burbank as examples of those who used their time advantageously. "We should put more system into our lives and decide what is worth while and what is not," declared the pastor. "Then when we know we should concentrate on those things. So many people give such a small part of their time to the church that it is not surprising that there are so many poor church members. They neglect the physical and spiritual side of their natures and develop the physical and material side."

Declaring that the principle of "giving one tenth held good to the division of time as well as money, Dr. Van Winkle then formed the Time Tithers Club. Each member pledged himself to give an hour and a half a day to church work.

"The health and safety of the state and possibly of the nation depends on how the citizens of California vote on the fourth health measure which are to be submitted to the people in the November election," declared Dr. Alvin H. FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

"We are the [illegible]" was the [illegible] of a sermon [illegible] last night at the First Baptist [illegible] by the [illegible] Rev. John Snape. Among other remarks Dr. Snape said:

"The earliest word in the English language is the word 'lost.' We speak and we think of a worthless vessel on a trackless sea, of a transient who finds no trail or marks across the trail of a mount beside, of a fleeting [illegible] to go into the hands of a receiver, of a bankrupt manager reaching out for a warrant and finishing up by [illegible] [illegible] of candidates [illegible] with blameless face and composed [illegible] [illegible] after election, of a little child wandering away from its home in a forest and presently looking up bewildered at the strange surroundings, of a young woman going to a great city to find employment and finally giving up the struggle—lost to virtue and a good name, of a young man forgetting the fragrance of a mother's kiss and the [illegible] [illegible] to the maelstrom of a fast life—and we say 'The Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost' and that He has a message to every man, to bosses and chasers and masses alike.

"The lost are those who, according to the parable of the sheep are thoughtless and careless and reckless about their souls, lost outside of the flock of God, living alone and filling the Shepherd with anxiety. How many people are lost in your house? The lost, like the Prodigal Son, are those who may be lost away from home amidst strange and evil surroundings and who by their own volition and wilfulness are out of fellowship with the Father. And the Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost, and is even now awaiting the return of wandering sons in their father's house."

PLYMOUTH CONGREGATIONAL.

"Habits make criminals. The criminals of our penitentiaries are there on account of the habits they formed in their youth," said Judge Everett J. Brown in his talks to the "First Fellows of Plymouth" Congregational church yesterday morning.

An embezzler does not set San Quentin or Folsom as his goal in life in fact he does not at first think of himself as an embezzler, continued Judge Brown. "A man has the handling of his employer's money one day he needs some money, he 'borrows' some of his employer's funds entrusted to his care. It is very easy the first time and in a few hours the money is back in its place again. But the man has a chance to make some extra money merely by putting $50 up. He doesn't happen to have the money on hand so he 'borrows' it from his employer again.

"This is true," said Judge Brown, "not only of bad habits but of good ones. If we form the habit of playing the game on the square in our youth we will continue to do so in later life and will become the kind of citizens we want to be."

Judge Brown's topic next Sunday will be "The Will to Win."

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

The greatest sin of the people as seen through the eyes of the lawyer is lying," said Rev. T. M. Sibley last night at the First Presbyterian church in his discourses on "People through the Eyes of Lawyer." The average lawyer agrees with Shakespeare when he says, Lord how the world is given to lying." According to the lawyer the temptation freely and [illegible] the exaggerating of truth and discoloring of the facts in the case. To listen to the protests of innocence from law-breakers one would think you were encountering martyrs instead of offenders.

"What takes people into courts. The lawyer says that the spirit of covetousness is one of the master forces. Persons sue for money. People also go into court with the motive of wreaking revenge upon an enemy. Others face charges because they have taken vengeance into their own hands. People get into court because of sinful passion and appetite. The district attorney's office declare that eighteen out of the last twenty murder cases are traceable to liquor as the cause. What does the lawyer think of the jury system? He thinks it right in theory but almost a failure in practice because the average juror does not decide cases according to evidence. Many of the lawyers believe that the jury system should be reformed that the law might actually function.

"The lawyers, almost without exception, recognize that the people need the moral and spiritual teachings of Christ. The lawyer is convinced that we should be serious about the secret of right doing."

READ YOUR OWN METER

Thereby check the amount used each month.
Meter readers read about 750 meters per day.

HOW TO READ YOUR METER

The dial on the right hand (marked 1 thousand) indicates one hundred feet from one figure to the next. The middle dial (marked 10 thousand indicates one thousand feet from one figure to the next. The dial on the left (marked 100 thousands) indicates ten thousand feet from one figure to the next.

If the hand on the right hand dial is between the figures 2 and 3, the lesser of the two numbers is read, the index reading two hundred feet. If the hand on the middle dial is between 3 and 4, this dial reads three thousand. If the hand on the left dial is between 5 and 6, the reading of the dial is 50 thousand feet. The complete index as indicated on the three dials would read 53,200 feet.

At $1.00 per thousand feet, the hand on the right hand dial passing from the zero point (0) to the figure 1, would indicate that ten cents' worth of gas has been registered on the meter. This hand would have to make one entire revolution of this dial and reach the zero point again to register $1.00 worth of gas, and the hand on the middle dial will have moved just one point, or from the zero point (0) to the figure 1, indicating the 1,000 feet of gas which has been registered in hundreds on the right hand dial.

Navy Recruit Held As U. S. Check Thief

Elmer C. Wicker, former army man, who was taken into custody in Oakland by Federal officers on charges of having appropriated government checks aggregating more than $1000, was held today in the San Francisco city jail, awaiting extradition to New York City, where he is scheduled to face trial.

Wicker, authorities say, led a carefree existence at various points throughout the country as the result of his alleged embezzlements. They accuse him of other crimes in connection, among which is his alleged desertion from the army last August. He is also said to have served a term in San Quentin for passing worthless checks.

The prisoner is specifically charged with having broken into army headquarters at Fort Hamilton and with having made his escape with a number of checks drawn to the amount of $1688 40 each.

Later, it is said, he enlisted in the navy for the purpose of obtaining transportation to the Pacific Coast, and it was on his arrival in this city that he was taken into custody.

HUMOR—PATHOS—ROMANCE

Cupid's Exile Number Two

Copyright, 1920, by Doubleday, Page & Co. Published by special arrangement with the Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

The United States of America, after looking over its stock of consular timber selected Mr John De Graffenreid Atwood of Dalesburg, Alabama, for a successor to Willard Geddie, resigned.

Without prejudice to Mr. Atwood, it will have to be acknowledged that, in this instance, it was the man who sought the office. As with the self-banished Geddie, it was nothing less than the artful smiles of lovely woman that had driven Johnny Atwood to the desperate expedient of accepting office under a despised Federal government so that he might go far, far away and never see again the false, fair face that had wrecked his young life. The consulship at Coralio seemed to offer a retreat sufficiently remote and romantic enough to [illegible] the necessary drama into the pastoral scenes of Dalesburg life.

It was while playing the part of Cupid's exile that Johnny added his handiwork to the long list of casualties along the Spanish Main by his famous manipulation of the shoe market, and his unparalleled feat of elevating the most despised and useless weed in his own country from obscurity to be a valuable product in international commerce.

The trouble began, as trouble often begins instead of ending, with a romance. In Dalesburg there was a man named Elijah Hemstetter, who kept a general store. His family consisted of one daughter called Rosine, a name that atoned much for "Hemstetter." This young woman was possessed of plentiful attractions, so that the young men of the community were agitated in their bosoms. Among the more agitated was Johnny, the son of Judge Atwood, who lived in the big colonial mansion on the edge of Dalesburg.

It would seem that the desirable Rosine should have been pleased to return the affection of an Atwood a name honored all over the State long before and since the war. It does seem that she should have gladly consented to have been led into that stately but rather empty colonial mansion. But not so. There was a cloud on the horizon, a threatening cumulus cloud in the shape of a lively and shrewd young farmer in the neighborhood who dared to enter the lists as a rival to the high-born Atwood.

One night Johnny propounded to Rosine a question that is considered of much importance by the young of the human species. The accessories were all there—moonlight, oleanders, magnolias, the mock-bird's song. Whether or no the shadow of Pinkney Dawson, the prosperous young farmer, came between them on that occasion is not known, but Rosine's answer was unfavorable. Mr John De Graffenreid Atwood bowed till his hat touched the lawn grass and went away with his head high, but with a sore wound in his pedigree and heart. A Hemstetter refuse an Atwood! Zounds!

Among other accidents of that year was a Democratic president. Judge Atwood was a warhorse of Democracy. Johnny persuaded him to set the wheels moving for some foreign appointment. He would go away—away. Perhaps in years to come Rosine would think how true, how faithful his love had been, and would drop a tear—maybe in the cream she would be skimming for Pink Dawson's breakfast.

The wheels of politics revolved, and Johnny was appointed consul to Coralio. Just before leaving he dropped in at Hemstetter's to say goodbye. There was a queer, pinkish look about Rosine's eyes and had the two been alone the United States might have had to cast about for another consul. But Pink Dawson was there, of course, talking about his 4000-acre orchard and the three-mile alfalfa tract and the 200-acre pasture. So Johnny shook hands with Rosine as coolly as if he were only going to run up to Montgomery for a couple of days. They had the royal manner when they chose, those Atwoods.

Rosine's answer was unfavorable

"If you happen to strike anything in the way of a good investment down there, Johnny," said Pink Dawson, "just let me know, will you? I reckon I could lay my hands on a few extra thousands 'most any time for a profitable deal."

Certainly, Pink," said Johnny pleasantly. "If I strike anything of the sort I'll let you in with pleasure."

So Johnny went down to Mobile and took a fruit steamer for the coast of Anchuria.

When the new consul arrived in Coralio the strangeness of the scenes diverted him much. He was only twenty-two, and the grief of youth is not worn like a garment as it is by older men. It has its season when it reigns, and then it is unseated for a time by the assertion of the keen senses.

Billy Keogh and Johnny seemed to conceive a mutual friendship at once. Keogh took the new consul about town and presented him to the handful of Americans and the smaller number of French and Germans who made up the "foreign" contingent. And then, of course, he had to be more formally introduced to the native officials, and have his credentials transmitted through an interpreter.

There was something about the young Southerner that the sophisticated Keogh liked. His manner was simple almost to boyishness, but he possessed the cool carelessness of a man of far greater age and experience. Neither uniforms nor titles, red tape nor foreign languages mountains nor sea weighed upon his spirits. He was heir to all the ages, an Atwood of Dalesburg, and you might know every thought conceived in his bosom.

Geddie came down to the consulate to explain the duties and workings of the office. He and Keogh tried to interest the new consul in their description of the work that his government expected him to perform.

"It's all right," said Johnny from the hammock that he had set up as the official reclining place. "If anything turns up that has to be done I'll let you fellows do it. You can't [illegible] his first-term of holding office."

"You might look over these headings" suggested Geddie "of the different lines of exports you will have to keep account of. The fruit is classified, and there are the valuable woods, coffee, rubber——"

"That last account sounds all right," interrupted Mr Atwood. "Sounds as if it could be stretched. I want to buy a new flag, a monkey, a guitar and a barrel of pineapples. Will that rubber account stretch over 'em?"

"That's merely statistics," said Geddie smiling. "The expense account is what you want. It is supposed to have a slight elasticity. The 'stationery' items are sometimes carelessly audited by the State Department."

"We're wasting our time," said Keogh. "This man was born to hold office. He penetrates to the root of the art at one step of his eagle eye. The true genius of government shows its hand in every word of his speech."

"I didn't take this job with any intention of working," explained Johnny lazily. "I wanted to go somewhere in the world where they didn't talk about farms. There are none here, are there?"

"Not the kind you are acquainted with," answered the ex-consul. "There is no such art here as agriculture. There never was a plow or a reaper within the boundaries of Anchuria."

"This is the country for me," murmured the consul, and immediately he fell asleep.

The cheerful tinkpint pursued his intimacy with Johnny in spite of open charges that he did so to obtain a preemption on a seat in that coveted spot, the rear gallery of the consulate. But whether his designs were selfish or purely friendly, Keogh achieved that desirable privilege. Few were the nights on which the two could not be found reposing there in the sea breeze, with their heels on the railing and the cigars and brandy conveniently near.

One evening they sat thus, mainly silent, for their talk had dwindled before the stilling influence of an unusual night.

There was a great, full moon, and [illegible] every sound was hushed for the air was but faintly stirring, and the town lay panting, waiting for the night to cool. Off-shore lay the fruit steamer Ondador of the Vesuvius line, full-laden and scheduled to sail at six in the morning. There were no loiterers on the beach. So bright was the moonlight that the two men could see the small pebbles shining on the beach where the gentle surf wetted them.

Then down the coast, tacking close to shore, slowly swam a little sloop, white-winged like some snowy sea fowl. Its course lay within twenty points of the wind's eye, so it veered in and out again in long, slow strokes like the movements of a graceful skater.

Again the tactics of its crew brought it close in shore, this time nearly opposite the consulate, and then there blew from the sloop clear and surprising notes, as if from a horn of Oberon. A moment it might have been, and silvery and unexpected pealing with spirit the familiar air of "Home, Sweet Home."

It was a scene set for the hand of the lotus. The authority of the sea and the tropics, the memory that suggests unknown seas and the prestige of drifting music on moonlit waters gave it an anodyne effect. Johnny Atwood felt it and the spirit of Dalesburg, but as soon as Keogh's mind had arrived at a story concerning the peripatetic solo he sprang to the railing, and his call [illegible] fractured the silence of Coralio like a cannon shot.

"Mel-lin-ger a-hoy!"

The sloop was now on its outward tack, but from it came a clear, answering hail.

"Goodbye, Billy . . . going home—bye."

The Andador was the sloop's destination. No doubt some passenger with a sailing permit from some up-the-coast point had come down in the sloop to catch the regular fruit steamer on its return trip. Like a coquettish pigeon the little boat tacked on its eccentric way until at last its white sail was lost to sight against the larger bulk of the fruiter's side.

"That's old H. P. Mellinger," explained Keogh, dropping back into his chair. "He's going back to New York. He was private secretary of the late hot-foot president of this grocery and fruit stand that they call a country. His job's over now, and I guess old Mellinger is glad."

"Why does he disappear to music, like Zo-zo, the magic queen?" asked Johnny. "Just to show 'em that he doesn't care?"

"That noise you heard is a phonograph," said Keogh. "I sold him that. Mellinger had a graft in this country that was the only thing of its kind in the world. The tooting machine saved it for him once, and he always carried it around with him afterward."

"I'm no disseminator of narratives," said Keogh. "I can use language for purposes of speech, but when I attempt a discourse the words come out as they will and they may make sense [illegible] they strike the atmosphere, or they may not."

"I want to hear about that graft," persisted Johnny. "You've got no right to refuse. I've told you about every man, woman and hitching-post in Dalesburg."

"You shall hear it," said Keogh. "I said my instincts of narrative were perplexed. Don't you believe it. It's an art I've acquired along with many other of the graces and sciences."

Shots Fired, 500 Join Pursuit of Suspect

Gathering a crowd of interested spectators which soon amounted to more than 500 persons as he ran, Policeman W. J. Hughes yesterday chased Harry Brown, 1028 Fifty-fourth avenue, for five blocks when the latter refused to stop at command.

E. O. Goodwin, 765 Fourteenth street, first saw Brown at Twelfth and Broadway, where he claims to have recognized the suit Brown was wearing as one stolen from him several weeks ago. He followed Brown to Eighteenth street and Telegraph avenue, where he met Policeman Hughes and asked him to arrest Brown. Hughes commanded Brown to stop whereat the latter started to run.

Two shots were fired after Brown by the policeman which served only to accelerate Brown's speed. The chase led down Telegraph to Twentieth where Brown ran through a garage to Broadway. At Nineteenth and Webster streets Brown ran into the basement of a house, where he was captured. Goodwin identified the suit and a belt which Brown was wearing. The latter refused to say how he received the property.

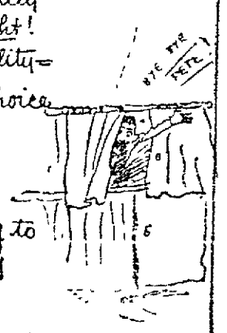
Camel CIGARETTES

Howdy Pete! Philadelphia—Tuesday.

Always learn something when I head into this old town. Passed my deck of Camels to a fine, business-looking citizen in the Bellevue dressing room this morning and this opened up a conversation. Listen, Pete, that man talked the Camel language according to Hoyle!

"Camels are the very quintessence of cigarettes" said this party. Pete, get that word? It fits—it spreads the news—it spills the whole Camel story! And, if you don't get what I'm driving to you, look up the word in Webster's! Why, Uncle Sam put it there when he dreamed Camels were coming! That man slipped into one word:—mellow-mild-body, no cigaretty aftertaste, no cigaretty odor—and—the best cigarette in the world at any price!

Pete, why do you hear men of all types everywhere actually boosting Camels? That's because they know Camels are right! They know from Camels flavor that Camels have the quality—and—they know that Camels blend of Choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos makes the most delightful cigarette any man ever put between his lips!



Old oil well, I'm no gusher, but the way Camels are going to more and more men every one of the seven days in every week is a sight to see!

Leaving for K.C. tonight housed as close to the roof as they could put me! Drop me a line care Hotel Baltimore.

Peter: Like that Camel "smash" up top? Think I'll adopt it as my letterhead. S.

CLEVELAND AND BROOKLYN ARE ON EDGE FOR OPENING GAME

HOUSE CLEANING CAME JUST IN TIME TO SAVE NATIONAL GAME FROM TOTAL DESTRUCTION

Capital Operation Was Necessary to Free the Game from Gamblers' Grip

Venom Would Have Spread Until Every Club in Both Leagues Were Contaminated.

By BOB SHAND

Gents having their habitat where rattlesnakes make their living say that a timely shot of the well-known but extremely scarce case oods will in some cases effect a cure. If it doesn't amputation of ie affected part is necessary. The poisoning process starts where ie victim is bitten and gradually travels all over the system. Then ie undertaker calls and the victim's friends invest in black neckties. So it is a wise little victim who submits to amputation of the ffected part. He saves something out of the wreck, anyhow.

All of which doesn't listen a little bit like a sport page yarn, but you compare the gent bitten by a rattlesnake to Mr. Organized aseball you will find the cases somewhat similar.

It takes a lot of nerve to shove out an arm or a leg and let your avorite surgeon saw off a part. So also it takes a lot of nerve to fire $100,000 worth of baseball players and at the same time throw million dollar scare into the customers who always believed that the grand ol' game was on the up-and-up.

When Mr. Organized Baseball first ecelved the gambling venom he alled. Maybe he would get better he did not submit to an operation and anyhow the shock would scare off all the cash customers. So he let the poison work itself into his system and many of his friends noted the effect. Here and there a fan would chirp that everything was not quite on the level. For the first time in the history of baseball there was foundation for rumors of crooked dealing.

Would Have Cashed in But for Operation

Mr. O. B. suffered for a year and then, rather than cash in his checks, he called the surgeon and told him to operate. A minor operation first removed three ball players from the picture. The capital operation performed last week cut the strings to eight of the country's best known athletes. The powers that be admitted that, in spots, the grand ol' game was not on the up and up. The surgeons are still sticking around looking for further evidence of the gambling venom and the chances are they will be kept busy for some time to come.

It is admitted that ace-in-the-hole gamblers have the national game by the throat and it will take heroic measures to pry the crooks loose. Half-way measures will be worse than none at all. It is necessary to clean out the whole works and start in again next season with a clean slate.

A ball player even suspected of shady work will get the gate and it will be up to him to prove his innocence. They are all guilty until they prove themselves innocent," is the modern baseball version of "Every man is innocent until he is proven guilty." The national game is too serious and nobody knows it better than the men in control. That's why they shot the whole piece and let the grand jury run all over the works.

Nothing that ever happened before in baseball was deemed important enough to yell "copper." The National Commission, like the Chinese Six Companies, was a power unto itself. It controlled the game and meted out punishment without the aid of the courts. Ball players appealed at times but they never had a chance. Organized baseball was stronger than any individual player.

Game Is Undergoing a Purifying Process

But even the aristocratic National Commission was not strong enough to handle the scandal that has been the talk of the country for the past week. The courts were appealed to and the game is now undergoing a purifying process that will no doubt leave it weak for a time but, through the sincerity of the owners, baseball will come back stronger than ever. The fans know that the magnates are on the up and up and they also know that the fear of the devil has been tossed into the players.

The present clean-up is the best thing that ever happened to the national sport. Had it not come now the poison would have spread until every team in both major leagues was contaminated.

For instance, if the gamblers could control eight ball players on one club this season how many clubs could they control in five years? In the course of that time the dishonest players would be spread among several clubs. Sales and trades would be made whereby the crooks would be placed with other teams. Eventually they would drift to the minors, provided they were not discovered at their dirty work, and the smaller leagues would also be corrupted.

Assuming that the eight ball players were on different clubs in five years. The gamblers who "had it on" the players would maintain their hold and insist that the crooks continue to aid them in their nefarious operations. No doubt these dishonest players would find birds of their own feather on their new clubs or men weak enough to listen to promises of "easy money." Like the poison of the rattlesnake the venom would soon take possession of the whole structure of baseball and it would eventually collapse.

Poison Has Appeared in the Coast League

That's why a capital operation has been found necessary at this time and that's why the surgeons are waiting expectantly not only in the East but right here in the ill ole Pacific Coast League.

Ugly rumors have been floating around the Coast League circuit. Three ball players have been blacklisted and the culprits have implicated others in their confessions. It is going to take the nerve of a Comiskey to cut out the cancer here but nothing in the world will cure the patient or restore the confidence of the customers but a wide-open investigation and the banishing of the guilty.

Harry Krause allowed the Angels twelve hits, but when it came to the pinches after the third inning the Oakland southpaw was there a million.

Better Play Witnessed in Soccer League

Alameda Beths Win, While Moores and Vampires Play a Tie.

STANDING OF THE CLUBS

Club—	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Olympics	2	0	0	1
Thistles	2	0	0	1
Rangers	2	0	0	1
Burns	1	1	0	.500
Barbarians	1	1	0	.500
Alameda	1	1	0	.500
Celtics	0	2	0	0
U. I. W.	0	2	0	0

As was expected, due to several teams strengthening, the second games in the California Football Association yesterday were better fought and resulted in closer scores than those of the opening Sunday. In spite of a very poor field on which they played, the Moore Shipyard and Vampires staged a fine game, the teams quitting the field with a 2 to 2 tie. The field at First and Adeline has been condemned by the California Association until it can be put into better shape.

Robertson and Sturrock appeared in the Moore lineup, while the Vamps showed some new faces and it is pleasing to be able to say that Oakland is fortunate in having two teams of such caliber representing the city, and, both should be found close to the top when the final curtain is drawn for the season.

Manager Elliott of Moore's, and Sterling are developing youngsters with pleasing results, and Moore's can be relied on to put up about the fastest brand of ball in this section as soon as the newcomers get properly acquainted. One of Moore's recruits scored both goals for them yesterday while Sturrock, McKiernon and the Dyer brothers also showed up well. For Vampires Stoner, Gilchrist, A. Stewart and Prescott were the stars. Tom Hill refereed.

ALAMEDA DEFEATS CELTICS

The Alameda Bethlehem team which lost its opening game looked like a much improved team when it met and defeated the Celtics at Washington Park in Alameda by 3 goals to 0. Several new men appeared in the Alameda lineup. Higett registered two of the goals, while Thompson made the other. It took the best efforts of the Celtic goal to keep the score down to three.

The best game of the day was between the Olympics and Barbarians, the Olympics winning 1 goal to 0. Baldwin scored the goal.

The Potrero Bethlehems were defeated in a fast contest by 2 goals to 0. The Rangers were the outfit to deliver the bad medicine. The Thistles also defeated the Burns by 2 goals to 0.

BASEBALL GOSSIP

Two more weeks of play remain in the Coast League and the old race is still far from being settled. The Angels continue to trail the league leading Vernon Tigers by two games, with the Seals being only a half game behind the Angels.

The Angeles managed to grab the series from the Oaks by winning yesterday afternoon at Recreation park, after the Oaks had played the Angels off their feet in the morning game on the local lot. Ray Kremer pitched for the Oaks, and, although he was nicked for twenty hits, he is not entirely to blame for the big score of 12 to 2.

Ray pulled out of some tight jams in the early innings.

A big crowd was out to witness the morning contest and everybody went home satisfied for the Oaks walloped the Angels by a score of 5 to 2.

There will not be any game played at Recreation Park tomorrow afternoon, as the Portland team will not get down from Seattle in time. The Oaks and Beavers will make up by playing a double header next Saturday afternoon at Recreation park.

President J. Cal Ewings announced yesterday that he will try a new stunt at the local ball park next Thursday and Sunday. A Magnavox is to be installed and by a person speaking from the press box, fans all over the park will be able to learn the lineups of both clubs as well as all changes of players. If the stunt works out alright, Cal will have it installed in his park for next season. It will mean that there will be no more need for an announcer to parade all around the field to announce batteries and such.

Claude Cooper hit a triple in the opening inning that put the Oaks' first run across. Denny Wilie and Harry Krause got a couple of hits each.

The Oaks forced Manager Killefer to use two Angel pitchers. The first was Ray Keating and he lasted until the fourth inning with two out. He stepped out of the contest with the mast full and the Oaks leading 4 to 2. Pertica made a wild pitch to give the Oaks their other run, and then he fanned Hack Miller. The Oaks got two hits off Pertica in the last four frames.

Shade Might Be Surprise Wednesday

Youngster Who Meets J. Duffy Has Been Coming Right Along.

The chatter among the fight fans at present is that Shade will have to be in better shape when he meets Mr. Dave Shade Wednesday evening than he was when he last donned the gloves at the Auditorium. Nobody was willing to give young Shade a tumble when he was matched with Frankie Farren but he licked Frankie after being held to a draw. Then when he was paired off with Frankie Burns the wise set chuckled and made the old comparison between a stake horse and a selling player. And Shade held Burns to a draw and would have received the decision had it been necessary to pick a winner. The Shade boy is a kid with a world of experience and he is coming all the time. Although young in years he has been fooling around a gymnasium for a long time, in fact he was quite a nifty performer with the gloves while he was still wearing knee pants.

SHADE HAS GROWN

But it was not until he left the bantam and featherweight classes behind him that little Dave broke into the main event class. He has proved a much better lightweight than he was a bantam or feather and there is no telling to what heights he may advance. For a youngster to hold Farren and the Veteran Burns to a draw is some considerable boost so those who think Duffy is a cinch to win Wednesday had better take another peek at the old record book.

Jack Reeves has been paired off with Cliff Jordan and it will take all of Cliff's craft to avoid danger. Reeves is a better fighter than most people give him credit for being and as he has hopes of a bout with Mr. B. Ortega he is going to demonstrate against Jordan just how good he is. Jordan gave Willie Shafer a nice pasting in his last start but Reeves is no Shafer.

Oak. Elks Win Bay Counties Diamond Title

The Oakland Elks showed up their San Mateo brothers in the deciding game of the Bay District League series at Ewing Field yesterday. A large crowd of San Mateo rooters augmented by an equally large delegation from San Francisco were present to root for their San Mateo team, but Oakland's handful of fans had the yelling all to themselves after the second inning, when their team bit Peterson for four consecutive doubles which coupled with a base on balls and one error gave them five runs. Hickey finished the game and held the Oaks to three hits and one run. The final score was 7 to 0.

Arlett pitched a masterly game, being in trouble only once, and a fast double play by Reab and Devereaux saved him being scored on them. He did not walk any and allowed but light scattered hits.

Oakland will go to Sacramento Thursday to play that lodge Sacramento has not been in any contest at all, but the committee in charge have decreed that Oakland must play them before contesting with Anaheim. Sacramento in this way may be beating Oakland get into the finals by playing one game only, whereas the Oaks have played eleven games to get the same privilege and by playing the Sacramentans will make it twelve.

The final standing of Bay District League:

Schreiber's Hit in Twelfth Frame Wins for Oakland Moose

At Key Route Park the Oakland Moose ball club had to put up a 12-inning battle with the American Legion Post No. 40 of San Francisco in order to bring home an 8 to 7 victory. The Moose started out in the first inning by putting four runs across on three hits and the wildness of Pitcher Bergman. The Legion came back with three in the fourth and evened up the score in the eighth, after which the Legion put in Tull to pitch and he held the lodge boys to a couple of hits, which came in the twelfth inning.

In this inning, which was to be the last on account of darkness, Tull disposed of McGuire and Reilly, but Dundas drew a walk. Bolesworth hit safely and then Schreiber connected for his fourth drive of the game and Dundas came home with the winning run.

Charlie Cowan, a former St. Mary boy and well known local ball player, was on short for the Legion boys and handled several hard chances.

NEW CHAMPIONS HAD A RUN OF BAD LUCK; ALMOST COUNTED OUT

Loss of Ray Chapman a Severe Blow; Mails and Sewell Pulled Team Out of Slump

By EDDIE MURPHY

It's all over in both the major league pennant races, and it now remains for the Cleveland Indians, winners of the American league flag, and the Brooklyn Dodgers, the champions of the National league, to line up for the first game of the world series at Brooklyn tomorrow [illegible] and let the patronage of fans decide if the scandal has killed off enthusiasm. The Brooklyn Dodgers won their flag after a hard struggle, but they failed to face the rough sea as did the Cleveland Indians or the Chicago White Sox, who were not counted out of the American race until Saturday. Yes, we know and so do baseball fans all over the country that Comiskey killed off all hope of his club winning the bunting when he fired eight of his best ball players for mixing with gamblers.

The White Sox had a grand chance to cop the flag until the Old Roman put the skids under those men, and while the release of those men has won Comisky thousands of new admirers and was one of the best things that ever happened for the good of the game, we wonder how close to the Indians the Sox would have been at the time of the indictment of the players had Old Man Luck taken a fall out of Tris Speaker's bunch a couple of months ago.

Chapman's Death Put Indians On Toboggan

Baseball fans, maybe with the exception of those who make their home in Cleveland, have probably forgotten all about things that happened a couple of months ago, because at the present time they are too interested in the scandal and the close races that were going on in both leagues. Old Man Bad Luck hit the Indians an awful wallop when Ray Chapman, their brilliant shortstop, was hit on the head by one of Carl May's fast ones and later died. The Indians were traveling toward Flagville at a fast gait when they lost their shortstop. Speaker and his bunch of Indians tried their best to go along winning, but the thought of losing Chapman and his absence from the infield combination soon saw the Indians started on the down grade.

It looked like it was all over for Cleveland with the Yankees and White Sox fighting it out. It took two recruit players to pull the Indians out of their slump. One of them is Walter Mails and the other is little Joe Sewell. Sewell stepped in and filled Ray Chapman's shoes at short like a veteran Sewell took all the boys by surprise, as he is only 21 years of age and was purchased this summer by Speaker from the New Orleans club. He is a second "Rabbit" Maranville.

But it took more than Sewell to pull the Indians out of their slump. They were shy in the pitching department. Walter Mails was secured to strengthen the pitching staff and as soon as Walter joined the Indians they were again parading toward Pennantville. Walter won six out of the seven games he pitched for Speaker's club, so he and Sewell just about saved the flag for Speaker's club.

Speaker's War Club and Brains Helped Great Deal

Every player on the Cleveland club is a big hero as the Cleveland fans look at them today, but the real idols are the two recruits and Manager Speaker himself. Speaker is the only playing manager in the American league and his work was a feature of the Indians' drive all season. As a hitter, Tris was one of the terrors of the American league and he is among the best of outfielders. Speaker joined the Indians four years ago, but didn't become manager until last year. It did not take the Cleveland leader long to give his fans a pennant.

The baseball world sympathizes with Old Roman Comisky, but Speaker and his men would have been deserving of the same sympathy had they lost out in the race. No doubt the Indians would have finished with a better percentage than they have today but for the death of Chapman.

And don't forget, Mr. and Mrs. Baseball Public, that right here in our own little Pacific Coast league there is a grand little race going on for the pennant.

Angels Get Two Runs Off Krause in Six Games

Ask "Red" Killefer, manager of the Los Angeles club, what pitcher in the league would feared more by his batters than any other chucker in the league. Without hesitation, Red will probably tell you that Harry Krause, the Oakland southpaw, is the one. Red wouldn't be making any bull about it either, for the Oakland southpaw holds a pretty clean record for twirling against the Angels. Harry pitched in six games against the southern club and until the game on the local lot yesterday morning, the Angels failed to score a run off him. They made two off him yesterday. Allowing only two runs in six games against the Angels is some feat for any pitcher to perform. Del Howard, manager of the Oaks, called out attention to Krause's feat. In a game in San Francisco some time ago, Krause relieved Harry Weaver in the second inning when the bags were full, and a sacrifice fly allowed a man from third, but that run doesn't go against Krause. Also Harry was mighty stingy in allowing the Angels hits.

It took the Oakland southpaw some time to get going this season, but now he is as good as any of the chuckers in the league and he will be a big help to the locals if he starts off as well as he is going now.

National Diving Title for Pinkston

ALAMEDA, Oct. 4 — Clarence Pinkston, who won the high diving event at the Antwerp games as a member of the American team, won the national diving championship here yesterday. Bobby Beck of Alameda was second and Bart Coffin placed third.

Ambrose Stars Are Defeated By C. L. Bests

By MAURY PESSANO

Fans who attended the Ambrose All-Stars-Best Tractor game at San Leandro yesterday were treated to a nifty display of pitching when Heinie Lay and Gene Caldera, operating for the Tractors shut out the Ambrose bunch while their playmates collected nine runs. Wagner had somewhat of an all-star combination himself, only three of the old guard being on duty.

The All-Stars lost because they could do nothing with the shoots of Lay and Caldera and the support given to their twirlers. Milton Steengrafe, and Ernie Thollander was very poor. The All-Stars proved very weak around the keystone sack, while Doc Querelo, at short made four boots to give the Tractors most of their scores. The only two hits sent out by the Ambrose boys came while Lay occupied the hill, and then with Gene Caldera working the Ambrose boys failed to get a good foul off the crack lefthander.

The work of Oakes O'Connor around short and Pat Kilhullen at first stood out. O'Connor made a back-handed spear of a drive that robbed Dooley of a hit. Lay whiffed five of the Allstars.

Caldera went to work in the sixth inning, and looked like a real leaguer. He had the All-Stars nailing out of his hand and did not allow a hit for the balance of the game. But one man reached as far as third base. Manager Dooley started Milton Steengrafe, the sensation of the Canadian League, on the hill against the Tractors, and the tall right-hander showed plenty of stuff until the boys behind him started to boot everything. Milt worked six innings, and then Ernie Thollander took the hill. The Tractors won the game in the early part of the contest by scoring a run in the first, second, and three more in the fourth, which proved too much for the All-Stars.

Doc Querelo booted a couple more. In the seventh inning when the Tractors scored three runs with only one hit Andy Vargas poled one over the left field fence with two on. A walk to Caldera in the eighth, a sacrifice, and a hit to center by Louie Fonseca gave the Tractors their ninth run. It was the first time in three years that Ambrose Furrer sat on the bench with his ball club, and directed the boys.

Dempsey, the first sacker, who will play with Seattle next season, was on first for the Ambrose Stars and looked to be the class of the Ambrose outfit.

Why Are Skin Diseases So Difficult to Overcome?

When your skin breaks out with itching eruptions, tetter, rash, eczema, psoryasis, or other terrifying disorders, very often the pain becomes so intense, and the discomfort so thoroughly unbearable that you are willing to try almost any remedy that you think will give some measure of relief from the torture.

But temporary relief will do you but little good, for soon all the itching and irritation breaks out afresh with renewed fury, and you soon realize that local remedies such as ointments, salves and similar treatment will never rid you of your trouble.

It will not be so difficult to rid yourself of skin diseases if you will but realize that these troubles originate in the blood, and if you expect real substantial relief you must treat them through the blood.

The best remedy for this purpose is S. S. S., the fine old blood remedy that purifies the blood of disease germs, and thus restores the skin to a normal and healthy condition.

Begin taking S. S. S. today, and write a complete history of your case, and our medical director will give you expert advice without charge. Address Chief Medical Adviser, 520 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.—Advertisement.

Dodgers to Face Bagby In Opener

Walter Mails and Stan Coveleskie Are Also in Readiness.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 5.—Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland Indians, winners of the American League pennant, had his team at League Park this morning for a conference during which he formulated his mode of attack against the Brooklyn Dodgers, the National League champions, in the coming world's series. The team arrived from Detroit last night and will leave for Brooklyn tonight, accompanied by many fans.

Although Speaker would not announce definitely his pitching selection in the first game tomorrow, it is likely that Jim Bagby, who won 31 games for the Indians for the season, may be called upon. Stanley Coveleskie and Walter Mails, both are ready and may be called upon if Speaker does not think Bagby has had sufficient rest.

Should Manager Robinson start one of his left handers in the box against Cleveland, Speaker may send his right-handed hitting crew which worked so successfully in the Detroit and St. Louis series, into the line-up. That would mean George Burns on first, batting in the clean-up position, with Joe Wood in right field. About 85 per cent of those fortunate enough to get tickets to the games to be played here were notified of their reservations today. E. S. Barnard, vice president of the Cleveland club, announced that the remainder probably would be notified by tomorrow morning. Special arrangements have been made in the postoffice to speed up the delivery of all letters containing orders for tickets to the world's series.

Brooklyn Park Is Too Small to Accommodate Fans for Opening Game

Managers Robinson and Speaker Refuse to Give Out Their Line Up Until Tomorrow

By JACK VEIOCK,
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The champion Brooklyn Dodgers are entrenched in Flatbush today waiting for the Indians to take the war path. Your Uncle Wilbert's lads are all set for the opening of the seventeenth world's series, but in order to keep in fighting trim they ambled over to Ebbetts Field for a final workout under the friendly shade of the newly-varnished rubber plants.

The Indians will not get an opportunity to squint at the high lights or test their range finders in advance of the opening game tomorrow. Speaker's tribe is not scheduled to leave the Forest City until tonight and will not reach Gotham until tomorrow morning.

With the first game less than 48 hours away, Colonel Charles H. Ebbetts and his corps of assistants have made everything ready for the entertainment of the Indians. Colonel Ebbetts is a bit dejected. He is grieving because Ebbets Field is not twin. The demand for reserved seats has been so great that the colonel will be forced to return thousands of dollars in perfectly good checks to the host of fans who could not be accommodated. The Brooklyn club received some three applications for every reserved seat.

The weather man, who swears he is not acquainted with any of the world's series gamblers, announced today that fair weather will be on tap for the first game. If the weather of the past 48 hours continues the crowd will be well wrapped up in overcoats.

PITCHERS NOT PICKED

New York is taking the big series seriously. Gotham fans are honestly interested in the coming engagement and the usual speculation as to the selection of pitchers for the opener was the leading topic wherever baseball fans gathered today.

Manager Wilbert Robinson hasn't selected his pitcher as yet. He says he will not make a selection until an hour or so before game time. It has been generally expected, however, that Harleigh Grimes would get the assignment. Grimes is Bobby's ace but Grimes is also a spitball pitcher and a speed merchant. As the Indians are supposed to love speed, Grimes may not start unless the skies are overcast, in which event his fog ball would be just the ticket. It will not be surprising if Robinson should send Sherrof Smith or Rube Marquard to the firing line. The Cleveland batting order is top heavy with lefthanded batsmen and your Uncle Wilbert is said to have a hunch that one of his southpaws will turn 'em back.

Tris Speaker hasn't a big string of pitchers to choose from. He must select one of two hurlers if he sends his best against the Robins, and it is practically certain that Bagby or Coveleskie will be chosen to pitch the opener. Speaker might spring a surprise by sending Duster Mails against the Dodgers, but this is scarcely expected.

Tribune Will Be First to Give the Fans News

Watch for The OAKLAND TRIBUNE world series baseball extra tomorrow afternoon. Just as soon as possible after the final flash of the opening game between the Dodgers and Indians is received, The TRIBUNE Green with complete description of the game and a box score will be out on the streets. The TRIBUNE was always first with the complete description and box score in other years, and it will again be first this year. Edition following the world series extra will give experts' views of the game.

The first game which will take place at Brooklyn tomorrow will start at 2 p. m. (eastern time), or 10 a. m. here. The TRIBUNE'S Star Scoreboard has been loaned to the management of the T. & D. Theatre and play by play will be flashed on the big electric board at that theatre.

LETTER OF GRATITUDE FROM TRADE UNION IRON WORKER

Oakland, Calif.
For about four and one-half years I suffered from Dysentery. I gradually grew worse and finally became so ill that for 2 years I was unable to work. I tried numerous doctors and spent four months at various hospitals, without obtaining relief. At least five different doctors wanted to cut me open to find out what was the matter, but I knew I was physically unable to stand it. I was in a pitiful condition. My friend asked me to try the FONG WAN HERB SPECIALIST, widely known as the most reliable and successful on the Pacific coast. After four weeks of his herb treatment, I am in splendid physical condition and am feeling fine. Words cannot express my gratitude. I am a trade union man, work hard and am back at work again. If any person desires further details I will gladly furnish them.

Sing Specialists Cure Eczema

How a vicious case of eczema which defied the treatments of American doctors in Oakland and San Francisco for seven years, was cured by the Sing Herb Specialists in five weeks, according to the patient, Mrs. H. Doller, 1441 East 38th St., Oakland, is told in the following letter:
September 16, 1920.
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
For more than seven years I suffered the horrible tortures of eczema, and in spite of all that American doctors both in San Francisco and Oakland could do, I lost weight continually. I was unable to sleep at night and the suffering I went through is beyond description. Finally my affliction developed into blood-poisoning, that caused me much pain and many fears. At this time I gave my case into the hands of the Sing Herb Specialists. In five weeks a complete cure of my ailment had been effected by them and I gained ten pounds in one month. My skin is now clear, I sleep perfectly, my appetite is normal and I never felt better in my life.

5 Cleveland Players Who Have Figured in Previous World Series

THE RIVAL INFIELDERS

By HENRY L. FARRELL,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Much of the success of the club winning the world series depends upon the work of the infield.

Between the infields of the two clubs that seem hooked to take part in the season's baseball classic there is little to choose.

Brooklyn, which has cinched the pennant in the National League, has a peculiar combination, consisting of an outfielder on third base, a third baseman playing second and a shortstop that the Fatbush fans have been riding all season.

Cleveland, which seems a certain winner in the American League, has nothing to boast of, but Speaker's troubles are caused by the lamentable "jumping" of Joe Harris, last year's star first baseman.

Between Ed Konetchy and "Doc" Johnston, Brooklyn seems to have the more dependable man on first base. Both are dangerous men at

TOSS-UP AT SECOND

At second base it is almost a toss-up between Pete Kilduff and Wamby. On the offense Kilduff gets the shade, but on the defense Wamby is a more finished fielder. Both are young and neither has had world series experience.

Ivy Olson at shortstop is a player who keeps the fans on edge every time he gets a chance. He should make a good world's series player, however, as he has stood up all season under the constant razzing of the Brooklyn fans and does his best right after making a bobble.

He is only a fair hitter and an ordinary base runner. Against the Cleveland youngster, Sawell, who will be allowed to play by Brooklyn, Olson gets the choice merely because he is more experienced and less liable to suffer nerves.

GARDNER LOOKS BEST

Larry Gardner gets the call on third base. Jimmy Johnston, brother of Doc, has made good after being switched from [illegible] but isn't capable of the caliber of play in the veteran Clevelander. Gardner is rated by most pitchers as a dangerous batter.

On the offense it would seem that the Brooklyn infield is superior by a [illegible] and on the defense. However, the latter have a smoother working combination and one that can be depended upon more in a pinch. It seems, on the whole, that the infield honors must be given to Cleveland.

Hayward N.S.G.W. Win Berth in Class B Division of League

The Hayward N. S. G. W. cinched a berth in The TRIBUNE Class B Winter League when they handed the Central Oakland Merchants a ten-to-four defeat. The Natives scored in almost every round and hit the shoots of Wade at will, getting twelve. Rose led in the attack, getting four hits out of five trips to the plate while McInerney sent out a triple and two singles out of four trips to the plate.

The Hayward Club have defeated all their opponents in the Elimination series, and they will make all the Class B clubs hustle to win the bunting. In the Elimination games "Pinky" Keller was nicked for but thirty hits and sent thirty-eight back to the bench via the S. O. route.

GOSSIP of GOLFERS

By W. D. McNICOLL

In setting up the new amateur record for Sequoyah's extended course, Archie Andrew was two down to par going out. A 5 on the first, a 4 on the third, a 4 on the eighth and 6 on the ninth were his weak holes, but birdies on the fifth and seventh left him only two down. Coming home in perfect golf he beat par on the tricky 13th and again at the 16th. All the other holes were negotiated in par. The new pars with Andrews' score at each are interesting:

Holes out—

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Par	4	5	3	4	4	4	5	3	5	—37
Andrew	5	5	4	4	3	4	4	4	6	—39

Holes in—

	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
Par ..	4	3	4	4	3	5	3	3	3	—35
Andrew	4	3	4	3	3	5	3	4	4	—33

R. L. Pratt, with his 22 handicap, gave Par a rough time. With 81-22-59, he won easily, with Dr. C. F. Jarvis well up with 79-13-66. Archie Andrew was third, 72-8-64. R. L. Pratt will no doubt have to undergo that painful operation of handicap amputation in the near future.

Thirty-two players are to continue the tournament in two flights of sixteen, both of which will be at handicap holes up, with no limit. So the back markers will have to go all the way to catch up with 8, 9 and 11 holes up players. The first round match has to be played off on or before October 9. The second on the 10th, third on the 16th and the finals over 36 holes on the 17th.

FIRST FLIGHT

Archie Andrew (4) vs. H. B. Lindsay (4); F. L. Pratt (11) vs. C. B. Barton (7); E. J. Haddon (5) vs. U. H. Owens (9); M. R. Sherwood (5) vs. N. Wighton (8); Dr. C. F. Jarvis (6) vs. Dr. C. H. Walter (1); F. E. McGurrin (4) vs. A. P. Crist (7); L. James (6) vs. Dr. J. H. Stineman (6); J. J. Valentine (6) vs. Jack Van Sickland (5).

SECOND FLIGHT

H. B. Blandon vs. W. Taylor; W. H. Scott vs. S. J. Eva, C. P. Hubbard vs. T. H. Smith, H. F. Droste vs. M. T. Minney, J. A. Young vs. B. F. Garrett, N. D. Hawkes vs. J. M. Parks, T. U. Macklin vs. J. R. Buck, H. B. Rector vs. C. H. Burman.

The ladies' invitational tournament at Belvedere attracted some of the best players to try out their interesting nine-hole course.

12 Brooklyn Players Who Have Figured in Previous World Series

Jimmy Johnston, Jeff Pfeffer, Ivy Olson, Leon Cadore, Zach Wheat, Sherry Smith, Hi Myers, Otto Miller, Rube Marquard, all with Brooklyn in series of 1916. Bill McCabe and Pete Kilduff with Cubs in series of 1918. Marquard also was with Giants in series of 1911-12-13.

Along the WATERFRONT

The fleet of foreign vessels which recently was chartered on the Pacific Coast to load grain for European ports is beginning to arrive here, and cargoes are now waiting for the ships to load. Shippers are still looking for other vessels, and each day another craft is secured. There are seven French sailing vessels already under charter besides several British craft, to load flour, grain and lumber for Europe. The latest charters reported today are the British steamer Orca, chartered by M. H. Houser & Company to load grain on Puget Sound for England, while W. R. Grace & Company has chartered the steamer Forest King to load lumber on Puget Sound, for Callao, at $30 a thousand feet, and the schooner Commodore will load lumber at a British Columbia port for Durban, South Africa, for Hind Rolph Company at the rate of $42 a thousand feet.

The steamer Admiral Walnwright which recently was purchased by the [illegible] will hereafter be known as the Agnes Dollar. She is en route to this port where she will be placed on the Orient trade.

The cannery tender Kanak and the bark Star of Finland arrived home from Alaska late yesterday. The tender came from Loring, in ballast, while the bark brought 44,448 cases of canned salmon and 100 fishermen from Alitak. Both craft are owned by the Alaska Packers Association and will winter in East Oakland harbor.

The lumber arrivals at this port during the last 24 hours were 4,140,000 feet of lumber and 6000 railroad ties. It is expected that this week's lumber arrivals here will break all records as most of the lumber craft are now in northern lumber ports loading for here and will arrive before the end of the week, which will help the local dealers who have large orders ahead.

The Larkentine Ecola is reported as putting into Noumea leaking. She was en route to Sydney with a cargo of [illegible] from Columbia river. The Ecola was built for the shipping board and was to be a steamer, but the hull was sold and converted into a wind jammer. She was on her maiden voyage.

The steam schooner Hornet arrived at San Pedro yesterday from the Atlantic coast and is taking on fuel. She will then sail for this port to be taken over by the S. E. Slade Lumber Company, and will again be used as a coastwise lumber packet. The Hornet is well known in Oakland Harbor, and formerly was owned by Fred Lindeman of Alameda, who sent her to the Atlantic coast four years ago, where she remained until purchased by the Slade company. She was built at Aberdeen, Washington, 14 years ago and carries a cargo of 700,000 feet of lumber. She is 697 tons register.

Thick fog, moderate sea, and light winds are reported along the coast this morning. At the north heads the wind is from the south, and a light rain is falling which may find its way inland around the bay cities. This morning early the fog drifted inland enveloping all of the bay cities until noon and causing the ferry skippers to be on the alert.

The power schooner Defender, recently ashore near Queets River, while en route to Seattle from the Columbia river, has been stripped of all her machinery and other equipment by the insurance company, as it was impossible to save the hull. If it were left on board it would be a total loss this winter when the heavy seas will break up the hull where she lies on the sandy beach.

Changes of Masters registered at the United States Custom House: [illegible] steamer Acme, Captain R. Jepson, pilot schooner Grace S.

INDUSTRIAL NEWS LAST WEST SHIPPING DAY'S EVENTS IN WORLD OF FINANCE

LUXURY TAX FOR YEAR $4,000,000

At the office of Internal Revenue Collector Justus S. Wardell it was announced [illegible] had been collected in the past year on account of sales taxes and other miscellaneous taxes, such as the so-called luxury tax, the soft drink tax, the dealers' tax, the manufacturers' tax, tax on jewelry, works of art, etc.

[illegible] business concerns in the First California district made distinctive returns of sales taxes since September 30, 1919, when this feature of the war revenue law became effective.

Collections aggregating $2,200,000 have been made by Collector Wardell since September 30, 1919, on account of the sale of documentary and proprietary stamps.

Of the $4,000,000 credited to sales tax collections, it is estimated the theaters and motion picture houses in the district paid in $1,250,000 collected from patrons.

The soft drink tax contributed a large quota to the sum of sales' tax collections.

Collector Wardell stated that the number of delinquencies on account of sales and miscellaneous taxes were comparatively small, and that merchants and business men generally have honestly endeavored to comply with the revenue law.

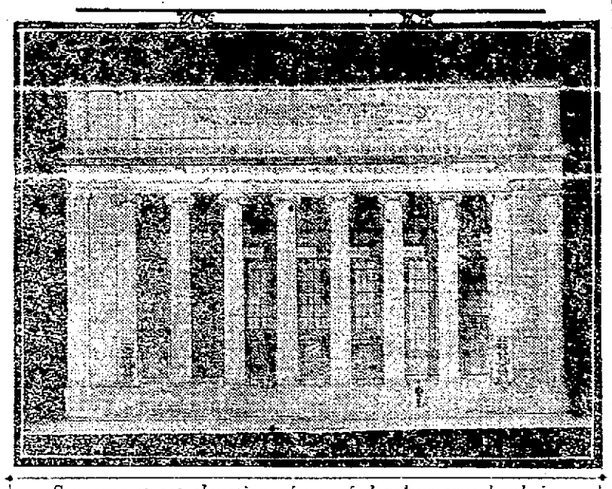
Construction Work on Federal Reserve Bank Begun in S. F.



Sansome street elevation of new federal reserve bank in San Francisco

Steel for the Foundation Will Be Delivered Soon; Vaults in Basement

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—Construction work on the new Federal Reserve Bank building on the block bounded by Sansome, Sacramento, Battery and Commercial streets, has been started by P. J. Walker, construction superintendent. The bank is at present occupying a six-story building located on this site. All other buildings are being razed. Steel for the foundations has been contracted for delivery in November and December. When the western section is completed the temporary building now occupied will be razed. The present structure will be four stories high with a basement. The foundations will permit the addition of ten stories.

Present plans locate the vaults in the basement with access from Battery street for automobiles, which will be loaded and unloaded behind locked gates. Investigating committee of experts appointed by the Federal board are making tests in Washington to decide upon the type of the large vaults. Executive offices will be located on the third floor. The main entrance will be off Sansome street. The western portion of the building will probably be ready for occupancy early in 1922.

The Federal Reserve Bank opened in San Francisco in November, 1914, with a staff of 23 including the janitor. It now has a force of 1019 in the head office and five branches. The site was purchased in 1917. Plans were approved in 1919. George W. Kelham is architect for the new building.

All sub-treasury operations must be transferred to the Federal Reserve Bank not later than June 30, 1921, according to a law recently enacted.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 4. — Severe new setbacks in the price of wheat resulted today from an increase of country selling. March delivery went under $2 for the first time on the crop, and December dropped to a new low level. On the basis of the premium of the hard winter grade over the December delivery wheat today was cheaper than at any time since 1917. Open quotations, which ranged from 2 to 2¼c decline with December $1.95 to $1.95½ and March $1.91 to $1.91½. In the final trading there was nearly complete absence of buying.

Big receipts and fine weather had a decided bearish effect on corn. After opening ½ to 2¾c lower, including December at 89 to 89½c, the market continued to descend.

Oats sympathized with corn, starting 1¼ to 2½c off. December 55 to 55¾c, and not showing any special power to recover.

Provisions lacked support despite an upturn in value of hogs.

Refunding Plans Are Made by Railroads

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 — The Baltimore & Ohio railroad today applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to issue refunding and general mortgage 6 per cent bonds to the extent of $7,586,000 to mature in 1966, but redeemable at 105 after 1925 at the option of the company. The road also applied for authority to issue general and refunding 6 per cent bonds for subsidiary roads to the extent of $3,915,000.

The Illinois Central railroad today applied to the Interstate Commerce commission for authority to create the Illinois Central Equipment Trust to finance the purchase of equipment to the extent of $12,315,916. The commission had previously appropriated $4,440,000 from the revolving fund for the purchase of equipment by the Illinois Central.

Stock Weakness Is Traceable to Bear Operations

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The Evening Sun financial review today said:

The market was reactionary in the first half of the session. Sales hung in the balance for a time around mid-day, in numerous cases losses having been neutralized and in the afternoon both industrial and railroad descriptions made good progress on the road to recovery and beyond. Weakness in industrial shares was traceable directly to bear operations on the short side, a position regarded as justified by the somewhat disappointing showing in the Saturday bank statements and the implication that easier money conditions, confidently anticipated at the close of last week, would not materialize.

The weakness in railroad stocks was confined to a large extent to the issues which were in most active demand on Friday and Saturday last, Northern Pacific and Great Northern. On the other hand, Canadian Pacific was strong, following realization of benefits to accrue to that and the other Dominion lines because of the granting of increased fares and rates. Chicago Northwestern and Union Pacific were also strong. Exceptions among reactionary industrials were the tobacco shares, which were consistently sought from the opening. The oils were frankly weak and the steels only moderately lower with one or two exceptions.

PROFIT-TAKING LOWERS PRICES IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. — The indefinite trend of prices at the opening of today's stock market resulted mainly from profit taking in the recently strong rails. Great Northern and Northern Pacific soon lost 1½ and 1¾ points, respectively, and other transcontinentals and grangers made fractional recessions. These were offset in a measure by moderate strength in Canadian Pacific, Reading, Baltimore and Ohio and Pere Marquette. Among industrials, oils and sugars were under further pressure with motors, steels and coppers.

Oils and steels extended their declines by the first hour, and equipment, shipping, copper, Textile and rubber shares fell 1 to 3 points below last week's closing prices. Sears-Roebuck was weakest of the specialties, falling 5½ points on moderate selling prompted by reports of new financing. Rails forfeited much of not all their early advance, but rallied before noon.

Canadian Pacific made an extreme gain of 3 points and "Soo," one of its subsidiaries, rose 5¾ points with marked strength in Chicago and Northwestern, New York, Chicago and St. Louis, Illinois Central and New Orleans, Texas and Mexico.

Trading quieted on the rally and call money and foreign exchange [illegible].

Tobaccos and utilities, particularly Consolidated, Lacledo and Peoples Gas shares were in demand during the mid-season and contributed to the further recovery of the general list. Oils retrieved most of their losses and buying of junior rails continued, Kansas City, Southern common and preferred displaying especial strength.

S. P. DEPOT CASE SET FOR MONDAY

The matter of a new Southern Pacific depot at Fourteenth and Franklin streets has been set for hearing next Monday at 10 a. m. in the Oakland City Hall by the Railroad Commission, according to advices received by the City Council today. Commissioner Devlin will conduct the hearing.

A full report of the Health Engineers' investigation of the water supply of Lake Merritt and Lake Temescal was submitted to the council by Dr. Kirby Smith, health officer, who said the water company was not using the water now, and that care is being taken that sewage from lands above the lake shall not pollute its waters. The Health Engineers reported that the waters were in fair condition, but that the sewage will have to be watched.

A plea from the Student committee of the University of California, asking that the council go on record as favoring the passage of Amendment 12, for the University, was referred to Commissioner Dacceu, who is also a member of the school board. The council deprecated any idea of going on record in such a matter.

SCHOOL BOARD GETS SITE OPTION

As the result of nearly a year of work by a committee of educators and business men, the board of education this evening will be tendered plans for the purchase of sites for the new Vocational high school and for the new University high school, merged with the Santa Fe junior high school.

Options have been taken for the old Gill nursery property for the new Vocational high school. This plat is bounded by Twenty-sixth, Twenty-eighth, Myrtle and Filbert streets and can be secured for $88,550. The appropriation for the new high school is $125,000, and the purchase for $88,850 means a saving. It is asserted. The school itself will cost $450,000.

For the University high school, recommendation will be made for the purchase of a tract bounded by Fifty-eighth, Grove, Aileen and Dover streets, at a cost of $50,512. The tract is three blocks long and takes several old residences.

It is believed the recommendations of the committee, headed by Irving Kahn, will be accepted by the board tonight.

SHELL OIL TO GO TO JAPAN IN TANK STEAMERS

The Shell Oil Company of California with head offices in San Francisco, today confirmed a report that the company is to supply oil to Japanese tankers but minimizing the importance or significance of this transaction which, it was asserted, was not unusual and is the result of a business deal consummated openly in the market. According to an official of the company the company some time ago, prior to the date when it entered to the contract to supply the American navy, contracted with a firm in Japan for a large supply of oil. This oil, it was said, was contracted for through regular channels, the company purchasing the oil acting for another company in the Orient.

Belief was expressed that the oil consigned to the Japanese concern is for commercial purposes and not for the Japanese navy, although it was pointed out that the Shell Oil Company could not arbitrarily designate who the ultimate consumer was to be.

"Our company is under contract to supply oil to a Japanese concern," said a company official, "but there is nothing unusual in this. It seems to have caused unnecessarry and unwarranted alarm in certain circles. The gist of the matter is that the concern in Japan many months ago contracted with us for a certain amount of oil. The contract was entered into before our company entered into a contract with the United States Navy for oil. It was simply a business matter, we made the contract and it is now being filled."

It was stated that two tankers are scheduled to arrive but that up to an early hour neither one had been reported as being near this port.

Automobile Accidents Take Lives of Five and Badly Injure Twenty-five

Two Woman, One Man Are Crashed Into, Knocked From Road by Machine, Whose Driver Runs Away

Oakland Men Die When Auto Leaves Road Near Sunol Rolling Down Steep Embankment, Pinning Them

Five are dead and 25 are hurt, of whom four stand in possibility of death, as the result of week-end automobile accidents in the bay and adjacent regions of the state.

In this list were two Alameda county fatalities and a report of three unidentified dangerously injured people at Gilroy believed to be San Francisco or Eastbay folk.

These three, two women and one man, were in an automobile which was knocked from the roadway near Gilroy and overturned by a machine which fled. All three were pinned under the machine and had been unconscious since being moved to a private hospital in Gilroy. All have internal injuries and the women probably fractured skulls.

OAKLANDERS KILLED AS AUTO LEAVES ROAD

The Oakland men were killed when their automobile went over a bank on a dirt road between Sunol and Pleasanton. It rolled thirty feet. Kusnik and Holmes were thrown out and pinned under the wheels. Mrs. Kusnik had Mrs. Senit of San Francisco as her guest. The women were thrown clear, but cut and bruised, while the two Kusnik boys, Joseph, 17, and Herbert, 14, jumped and escaped injury.

Kusnik was a cement worker and was driving. Holmes was business agent for Oakland steamfitters.

Robert J. Winter, president and general manager of the Pacific Typesetting and Typefounding company of San Francisco, drove his car into a tree, at Millbrae, last night, when he failed to estimate the course of another car and swung too sharply. He was driving rapidly.

When lifted from the wreckage of his car he was found to have a broken neck and died on the way to a hospital. Winter was returning from San Carlos, where he had been to see his former wife, Mrs. Frankie Winter, who was given a divorce last month. He drove alone.

WOMAN IS KILLED WHEN TIRE BURSTS

Four men and a woman were hurt, the woman dying later, and two men escaped injury in an accident at Thirty-ninth and Fulton streets, San Francisco. James Bottini, after treatment in a hospital, was arrested, charged with reckless driving. The woman who died was Mrs. Louise Lang. She was a factory packer, and lived with her mother at 60 Fair avenue, San Francisco. The men said a tire burst.

Thomas McGarvie and Arthur Melvey escaped hurts. Bottini, Bolean, Malasta and Armenio were all cut and bruised and Malasta suffered wrist and collar bone fractures. The men operate a cafe.

Thomas A. Lorsbach, an Oakland policeman of the eastern division, faces a charge of reckless driving as the result of striking an automobile driven by Mrs. S. A. Brobst, 727 Sycamore street, yesterday. Mrs. Brobst was treated for cuts and bruises at the Receiving hospital. It is charged Lorsbach crowded Mrs. Brobst's machine to a curb and then struck and overturned it. Delmar Brobst, son of Mrs. Brobst, was in the smash, but was not hurt. Lorsbach gave himself up.

Alfred and Robert Enright and Edison O'Brien, boys 4 years old, ran around a street car in front of a machine driven by E. L. Husby of San Francisco. All were knocked down and cut and bruised. Husby took them to a hospital for treatment. The accident happened at Eighteenth and Howard streets.

POLICE CAPTAIN FIGHTS CHINESE RAID INJUNCTION

Seven Chinese social clubs are awaiting only a court order and the disappearance of seven patrolmen placed on guard, one at each place, before they break out with violent symptoms of being gambling joints, according to Captain Bodie Wallman today. Wallman is opposing court action of the Orientals who seek to enjoin the police from making their habitual raids upon the places.

For some days Wallman and the seven clubs have been playing a little game of hide and seek through the lanterned byways of Chinatown. On Thursday and Saturday the police captain put dash and go into the game by hammering down the doors of the seven clubs and chasing the inmates through trapdoors and over back fences.

INJUNCTION SOUGHT

In an effort to prevent the raids, which the Chinese say are disconcerting to members of the clubs, who like to have quiet and order with the cards, leaders of the seven organizations applied to Judge Everett Brown for an injunction directed against the police. Supplied with a citation asking the police to show cause why the injunction should not be issued, the Chinese have the impression that any raids by police are illegal.

In the meantime, according to Captain Wallman, a most interesting game has developed between Chinese and patrolmen. At each of the clubs an officer has been stationed and while he is there the Orientals play idly at games in which there is no financial hazard. The moment the patrolman disappears, says Wallman, there is resumption of the gambling.

BUT ONE REMEDY

The only remedy, police say, is for the patrolman to stay on duty long enough to discourage custom at the clubs. From the asparagus fields of the delta country and from the canneries there have come a large number of Chinese laborers, who enter the clubs, note the patrolmen on guard, and go away without having staked their season's earnings against a single dream of wealth.

In the property seized by the police are a number of lottery tickets upon which is said to depend the payment of winnings to customers of a number of the clubs. The man who claims the tickets will be arrested as the keeper of a lottery and if they are not claimed their owner will be suspected of having cheated the buyers.

It is all wrong, the Chinese say. The police should learn to distinguish between social clubs and gambling joints and they should not impugn the honor of dealers in lottery tickets.

Therefore the appeal for an injunction.

Footpads Hold Up Two Men, Rob One

Two footpads held up two victims at different times early yesterday. They secured $51 from one victim, and were frightened away from the other while they were rifling his pockets, according to police reports today.

The first victim was Samuel Sorenson, 105 Washington street, who was attacked at the foot of Ninth street. The men asked him for a match, and when he put his hands in his pockets to look for one, they poked a gun in his ribs.

Among other things they told him that his life would not be worth much if he notified the police. Later two men of the same description stopped Bernard Lopez, 818 Clay street, at Seventh and Castro streets, and were going through his pockets when they were frightened away by an approaching automobile.

POLITICS SLOW IN THRIVING WEST, SAYS BUTLER

"Economic prosperity and political apathy" abound in the West, in the opinion of Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, whose return to New York from travels in West he has emphasized with a statement on what he observed.

Dr. Butler started at the Mexican border and spent two months working northward to Canada and thence east.

"The products of the San Joaquin Valley will have a value this year of $250,000,000; those of the Imperial valley, $35,000,000; while the California orange crop will bring $60,000,000," says his statement, made public today.

ITALIAN COMPETITION

"The lemon growers, on the other hand, are complaining bitterly because of Italian competition, which is aggravated by the foreign exchange rate and the new freight tariff to their Eastern markets."

But, "despite the widespread apathy" which Dr. Butler insists he found, he says, "Republican party leaders in States west of the Missouri river are very confident of the result, which many regard as due to the fact the people have definitely made up their minds how to vote in November."

Reviewing the action of 15 Western States in the 1916 election and attributing Wilson's success to the support of 13 of them with 73 electoral votes, he now believes it is probable that "twelve of those fifteen, with 73 electoral votes, will be carried for Harding."

OPPOSE WILSON

"In 1920," says the academic analyst, "it is most usual to hear voters of every class and type in these States express the most bitter antagonism to the Wilson administration and its policies. They seem to be stirred by an amusing mixture of regret, remorse and revenge."

Concluding he returns to Senator Harding, saying:

"Senator Harding steadily gains in favor with the Western people by reason of the dignity and urbanity of his bearing and his speeches. His front-porch method of campaigning is almost universally commended. The people are a little tired of seeing presidency pursued hot-foot either before or after the conventions.

"The expectation is general that following the anticipated Republican victory there will be a quick and constructive solution of the problems arising out of the Peace Treaty that will be in accordance with the established foreign policy of the United States."

SAM BELL McKEE

Paralysis Stroke Is Fatal to Member of California Pioneer Family.

Sam Bell McKee, prominent bank and corporation attorney, died yesterday at his home, 305 Vernon street, following an illness of several weeks. Early in the summer he suffered a stroke of paralysis, from which he has never rallied. McKee was known throughout California in his profession and has been counsel in many of the famous cases in this State. He was associated with the legal firm of McKee, Tasheira and Wahrafig.

The late Judge Sam Bell McKee, one of teh first Associate Justices of the Supreme court, was the father of McKee, the family representing the early pioneers of California. Besides his mother, Mrs. Sarah McKee, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Spens Black and Mrs. Norman Lang.

Born in Oakland sixty years ago, McKee was graduated from the University of California with the class of 1881, and from Hastings Law School in 1883. Immediately afterward he established his law offices in this city, where he practiced continuously for the last thirty-seven years. McKee was affiliated with the Athenian-Nile Club and other organizations, including those of his own profession.

McKee was the organizer and [illegible] Club, it being entirely through his energy and financial genius that the project was put through.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the residence in Vernon street. Arrangements have not yet been completed.

McKee was vice-president of the Farmers' and Merchants Savings Bank and attorney for the Oakland Bank of Savings.

CANARY CHARMS BURGLAR, SAVES OWNER'S SILVER

The golden song of a canary bird saved the family plate and treasured jewels of Mrs. Irene Driver, 545 Eighteenth street, when a burglar entered her home early today, according to the report made to the Oakland police.

When Mrs. Driver awoke this morning, she found her house ransacked from room to room. Jewels and silverware which had been bunched together was left where it lay. But the canary bird and its Japanese cage was gone.

"Evidently the burglar was so charmed with the bird-pet's song that he took it and left everything else," surmised Mrs. Driver.

Among other burglaries and thefts reported to the police was a complaint by the Fig'n Whistle Candy Company. The loss of considerable money and a fur coat was reported.

That pickpockets are operating in the city was indicated by the reports that three persons had suffered losses. Alfred W. Lafferts, naval hospital, Mare Island, complained of the loss of $35 taken off his person while dancing in the Arcadia dance hall.

A. Wynn Williams, 1075 Fourteenth street, had an amethyst scarf pin stolen while on a local street car, and Miss A. Tucker, of San Francisco, suffered from a purse snatcher's operations.

The theft of a bicycle from H. Tillotson, 2204 Seventh avenue, completed the day's thievery.

Wine Grape Season Soon to Close With Profit to Grower

The wine grape season virtually will close at the end of this week.

It is estimated that by that time the equivalent of 400 carloads or 6000 tons of wine grapes will have been sold in Oakland. Carload shipments into Oakland have so far been more than 250 carloads, produce dealers say, and with that which will arrive this week and the amount which has come into town by trucks throughout the marketing season the total will easily mount to 6000, it is said.

With the end of the season near, wine grapes sold on the market today from $130 to $150 a ton. At present an average of four to six carloads are coming into Oakland every day. At fifteen tons to the carload that runs up an average of sixty tons a day.

GRAPES ARE SOLD OUT.

Buyers from local produce houses who went into the country last week to buy grapes report that in all sections the grapes are all sold out. The farmers who contracted early in the year are getting but $75 a ton for their grapes but those who did not contract in advance but are now selling from the vine are getting as high as $110 and $115 a ton for their grapes on the vine.

In the local market the produce men lost money at the beginning of the season. They bought at $90 a ton and were unable to sell for more than that after paying freight and handling costs. While this condition existed many of them cancelled contracts, thinking that the market would be much weaker than had been expected.

Then the market strengthened. The retail demand became so great that it could not be supplied and prices soared. Three weeks ago grapes were bringing $115 and $120 on the local market and now with the season almost over that price has been topped by $30.

FARMERS REFUSE $90.

When the local produce men who had cancelled their $90 contracts went back to the farmers to renew them, the farmers refused to sell under $110 a ton so that is the price that has been paid for the grapes that are now being sold here.

Many vineyardists have contracted their entire crops for $100 a ton and the buyer is picking and shipping them. One grower from Mission San Jose said today that he is getting $100 a ton for his grapes on the vine, whereas five years ago he thought he was getting a big price when he got $10 a ton and then he had to pick them and haul them fifteen miles to San Jose.

It is reported that all the wineries of the state are operating to full capacity. In several of the wineries of the Livermore and Pleasanton districts the farmers are having the wineries manufacture grape juice for them on a commission basis. The market for grape juice continues good and by this arrangement the farmers are netting more than $140 a ton for their grapes.

GEAR JAMS, BAY FERRY LOSES WAY

Several hundred commuters on the Southern Pacific ferry boat Santa Clara were alarmed early this morning when the vessel became temporarily disabled in the middle of the bay and for a while apparently headed for Alcatraz island. As near as could be ascertained the vessel's steering gear had become temporarily disabled.

Commuters on other ferry boats had their attention drawn to the Santa Clara when that vessel suddenly deviated from its usual course and started toward Alcatraz Island. After several minutes of erratic maneuvering about the bay the Santa Clara then straightened out on her course and proceeded to her pier.

According to passengers on the Santa Clara, the vessel apparently became unmanageable for several minutes, but later turned about completely in her course, regained control of her steering apparatus and proceeded on its way.

The Sunshine on Your Walls

Brings the maximum of peace and comfort and cheer only when it discloses surfaces that are clean and glossy and spotlessly white.

You can make the walls of your kitchen and your bathroom a beautiful, gleaming, durable white by using the proper enamel. For this work we are pleased to recommend to you from our experience

Enamolin—a white enamel that will make a white spot on any other white enamel; that will not "lap" or "curtain" unevenly when applied; that is easily cleaned and is proof against weather, water and wear. It can be used for outside surfaces as well as inside.

Many housewives will order mayonnaise at the restaurant but not make it at home. Why?

PROBABLY because many still have the idea that mayonnaise is lots of trouble to prepare.

Or that they cannot make good mayonnaise—or that it won't "keep."

None of these reasons keeps the woman who knows Mazola from making her own mayonnaise every week.

Mazola being an absolutely pure vegetable oil, blends the ingredients perfectly and imparts its own delicate flavor to the dressing—which will keep for weeks without separating.

Once you try Mazola you will prefer it to olive oil. It not only equals the finest imported olive oil, but costs about half the price.

MAYONNAISE

2 Eggs, Yolks only — 1 teaspoon of Salt
1 Pint of Mazola — 2 tablespoons each of Lemon Juice and Vinegar, or
1 teaspoon of Mustard
1 dash of Cayenne or White Pepper or ½ teaspoon Paprika — 4 tablespoons of Vinegar (any flavored vinegar may be used)

Have all ingredients and mixing utensils cold. Mix dry ingredients. Add egg yolks and when well mixed, add ¼ teaspoonful of vinegar. Add Mazola drop by drop until the mixture begins to thicken, beating slowly. As soon as the mixture thickens, add the remainder of the vinegar a little at a time. Now beat in the remainder of the Mazola gradually until all is used. The Mayonnaise should be thick enough to hold its shape. Put in a glass jar and cover close. Place in the ice box to be used when needed. It will keep for weeks. Do not stir it when you open it; take out as much as you need with a tablespoon and close the jar.
